YEAR HAS BEEN ONE OF PROGRESS

Street, Building And Hospital Opening Notable 1921 Events.

WAS LITTLE IDLENESS

Gettysburg Has Good Record of Achievement And Improvement. List of Important Events.

Although 1921 will not be recorded by historians as one of prosperity or business activity in the United States, achievements and improvements for Gettysburg in the past year have been many and in some instances extensive. While in many towns business has been almost at a standstill and the streets thronged with idle men, these conditions have not existed here.

Nineteen hundred and twenty one will not be chronicled as among the foremost years in Gettysburg's history, but it must be recorded as one of progress. This fact is all the more notable in view of depressed conditions in many towns of this state.

The year will be remembered chiefly for the opening of the Warner Hospital and the building of Carlisle and Baltimore streets. These are the outstanding improvements that suggest the scope of the development for the year.

Instead of there being a decrease in the demand for men and women workers there has been a marked increase during the year. This was brought about by the doubling of the Eagle silk throwing plant, the opening of the Sure Foot Heel and Rubber Company factory and the street paving operations.

Following are some of the events of the year, varying in importance: January 15—Merchants turn down

SCOUTS IN SESSION

Quarters of Troop on York Street Better Equipped.

Fifteen members of Troop 1, Gettysburg Boy Scouts attended the regular meeting held Friday evening in their rooms on York street. Quarters for the scouts have been equipped with a stove and the rooms have been otherwise improved.

It was decided Friday night to organize a Quartermaster Corps of Boy Scouts here. A Scout will be appointed to make arrangements for the organization.

This morning ten of the scouts went on a hike to Wolf Hill. Assistant Scoutmaster John Clutz was in charge.

SHOW FOR DISABLED

The American Legion Post at Greencastle Thursday night staged a three-act play for the disabled veterans of the World War at the Mont Alto Sanatorium. This entertainment is the first of a series that will be given by various Legion posts, including those in Adams county, during the winter.

MARCH IS TIME FOR MARRIAGES

December is Close Second With June Among The Lowest.

MORE JUDGMENTS FILED

Fewer Judgments Satisfied This Year And More Go to Sheriff's Sale For Execution. Money is Tighter.

The month of March which in other sections is usually a dull period in the marriage license business takes the honor in Adams county for it was then that J. R. Hartman, Clerk of the Courts, issued the greatest number of permits to wed during the year 1921. In that month, 25 licenses were issued. December is a marrying time in all parts of the country and follows close with a total of 23.

June, the month of brides, shares honors with February in having the fewest numbers of licenses issued. Only ten were granted in each of these months.

The reason assigned for the large number of licenses granted in March is the fact that with a large rural population, the young couples move on farms on April 1 shortly after the ceremony. It is estimated that 30 per cent of the licenses granted during the year are to couples who live on farms. Many of the town couples slip over the line to Maryland for the license.

With 1921 passing, a total of 184 licenses have been issued at the local Clerk of the Court's office which is seven less than 1920. During the period from 1917 to 1919 as high as 250 licenses were issued in some years. With the cost of living high and rents almost out of sight, the youthful swains are more wary in proposing, putting the question off to some time

PARADE PLANS COMPLETE

Nice Weather Only Needed to Make it a Success.

Arrangements for the Grimmer's Parade to be held in Biglerville Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock have been completed and its success will depend entirely upon the weather. Those in charge say. If the weather is unfavorable the event will be postponed until the afternoon of January 7. Zero weather would make it impossible to stage the fire fighting demonstration successfully and temperature of that variety will be sufficient to call off the parade.

MISS SCOTT MARRIED

Wed Thursday at High Noon at Saloma To J. S. Grove.

Miss Helen Scott, who resigned as teacher of the first and second grades of the Meade School, Friday was married to J. S. Grove, professor of mathematics at Shippensburg Normal School, at Saloma, near Lock Haven, Thursday, at high noon, according to word received here today. Miss Scott is the daughter of William L. Scott, Freedom township.

Mr. and Mrs. Grove left on an extended wedding trip to Philadelphia and New York and upon their return on January 9, will make their home in Shippensburg.

NO RURAL DELIVERY

As there will be no delivery on the rural routes Monday no Morning Edition of The Times will be published. The office will be open all day, however, and subscribers calling there may secure a copy of the paper.

FOUNTAIN OWNERS MUST PAY THE TAX

Levy on Syrups Makes Retailer Pay. According to New Law.

While the tax on soda fountain beverages is removed January 1, owners of fountains here will be required to pay a tax on syrups that they have not paid heretofore, according to a letter from Thomas S. Laney, chief field deputy of the Department of Internal Revenue, to V. J. Smarsh, local deputy revenue collector.

According to the new revenue law there is a tax of nine cents a gallon on "all finished or fountain syrups of the kind used in the manufacture, compounding or mixing of drinks commonly known as soft drinks, except those sold in bottles or closed containers."

Practically all soda fountain owners in the county buy their syrups in concentrated form and dilute them with sugar water. This dilution, under the new law, completes the manufacture of the syrup and therefore makes the retailer the tax payer. There are certain syrups, such as chocolate and lemon that the fountain owner usually manufactures himself and the tax is, of course, levied on them.

On beverages manufactured and sold in bottles or closed containers there is a tax of five cents a gallon to be paid by the manufacturer.

COUNTY COMPOSER ENTERTAINS CLUB

Miss Isabelle Knouse, Arendtsville, Gets Composition in Etude Magazine.

Miss Isabelle Knouse, of Arendtsville, who holds the honor of being the only composer of music of note in Adams county, gave a piano recital consisting of selected numbers and of her own composition at a meeting of the Civic Club of Cashtown, held Friday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Woomer.

Miss Knouse, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knouse, is still in her teens and a member of the sophomore class at Hood College, Frederick. She graduated from the Arendtsville Vocational school a few years ago.

Besides several of her own compositions which she rendered in a pleasing manner, Miss Knouse entertained with a number of selected numbers.

Her number entitled "Valse Espagnole," which she composed during the past summer, was published in the September number of the musical journal, "Etude". Miss Knouse has appeared in a number of recitals in Frederick and has received favorable comment wherever she has appeared.

NO CHANGE HERE

T. C. Frame Continues At Head Of Highway Office.

The personnel of the Sixth District of the State Highway Department which includes the counties of Adams, York and Franklin, will remain unchanged, according to a statement issued today at the headquarters of the Department in Harrisburg. T. C. Frame will be retained as district engineer and George C. Crawford, as assistant engineer. The district office will remain at Gettysburg. The office force here is to be maintained.

By eliminating several districts the Highway Department has reduced the number from eighteen to fifteen and has made numerous changes in the Department's personnel at the various district offices. The counties which were eliminated have been attached to other district offices.

DROP IN SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Lower Prices For Newsprint Paper Makes it Possible For The Times to Reduce Rates To a Normal Basis.

With the price of newsprint paper apparently stabilized and at the lowest mark of any time in the last five years, The Times today announces a reduction in subscription rates, effective at once. The new rates are:

One year $4.50 by carrier. One year $4 by mail. By the month to all subscribers 40 cents. Single copy 2 cents. All subscriptions payable in advance.

Subscriptions already paid in advance will have the time of expiration extended from January 1 on the basis of the new rate.

Early in 1920 when The Times announced an increase in rates, it was declared a reduction to the normal base rate of 40 cents a month would follow just as soon as market prices for the materials used in producing a newspaper permitted it. The cost of paper has slowly declined during the last year. Other costs of production, however, remain unchanged. The Times, nevertheless, feels a reduction in rates is justified and accordingly these rates as announced are effective immediately.

While many of the smaller newspapers in the state have not reduced rates and have instead staged subscription campaigns in which prizes are offered to those securing the most subscriptions, it is the belief of The Times that each subscriber should benefit rather than a few. There will be no frenzied campaign for new subscribers, the efforts that might be expended in that direction will be given rather to the production of a better newspaper.

PLAN TO ORGANIZE MOTOR CLUB HERE

Decision to be Made Within Thirty Days on Feasibility of Plan.

Other Boroughs From One End of State to The Other Have Motor Clubs. Chambersburg And York.

Some time within the next thirty days, motorists of Gettysburg and those of the county will have an opportunity of voicing their opinion as to whether or not Gettysburg shall have a motor club. According to Howard C. Mittinger, of the State Lincoln Highway Association, who, together with Robert C. Miller, State Superintendent of Printing and Binding, are working on plans in the hope that such an organization will appeal to motorists here.

A public meeting will be announced later when J. Clyde Myron, of the State Federation of Associated Motor Clubs, Harrisburg, will be the main speaker in behalf of such an organization for this community. Mr. Myron, it is understood, has organized many clubs in the State and has expressed willingness to come to Gettysburg any time the committee names.

Gettysburg, Mr. Mittinger claims, is the missing link in the chain of motor clubs reaching from one end of the State to the other. There are

In an attempt to stimulate the interest of the ex-service men in the Albert Lentz Post of the American Legion, the entertainment committee has arranged for a series of smokers to be held on regular meeting nights, the first to be staged Monday evening starting at 7:30 in the Legion rooms.

In order to have as large a crowd as possible the committee has sent special invitations to over 400 men in Gettysburg and the immediate vicinity asking them to be present at this time. Besides the smokers which are to be provided by the post, refreshments will be served.

This is the first meeting in 1922 and an effort will be made to impress upon the men, the necessity of attending the regular meetings held the first and third Monday of every month. The invitation also asks the men to bring their dues for 1922 to this meeting. Reports of various committees will occupy the evening.

The most important report will be that of the chairman of the building committee who is expected to divulge the site purchased by the Post for its permanent home, at this time.

With the time for launching the farm sale season in Adams county only a few weeks off indications are that there will be fewer of these auctions in 1922 than in any of the last three years. Nearly three hundred sales were listed by The Times in its "clearing house" in 1919 and approximately two hundred were advertised in these columns last year.

At the present time thirty five sales have been listed in The Times office, fifty per cent less than last year on the first of January. While there are many sales that will be held that have not been listed, the present sale record as compiled by The Times is considered a fair indication of the size of the season.

January, February and March of 1919 set the high mark in farm sales for the county and throughout the entire year, it is estimated that five hundred farm auctions were held. This was immediately following the end of the war and prices were high. It of-

Mohani invited Mohandas Ganshi, leader of the non-co-operation movement, who was present, to form a parallel government with its own parliament and armies. Mohani admitted that such a government could not be maintained by peaceful means.

SEVERE STORM ON WAY

Warnings Issued. Colder Weather With New Year.

(By Associated Press) Washington, Dec. 31.—The new year will be borne to the eastern half of the United States on the wings of the winds both figuratively and literally speaking, the forecast of the weather bureau indicates.

A disturbance descending from the frigid northwest was central early today over Lake Huron. The disturbance was described by the bureau as a severe storm attended by westerly gales and with the forecast that it would reach the Atlantic coast by night. A storm warning was issued for that portion of the coast between Norfolk, Virginia and Eastport, Maine.

Colder weather also will attend the coming of the new year, the bureau stating that lower temperatures might be expected tonight and Sunday in the lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf states and by tomorrow in the Atlantic states north of Florida.

STOCK REPORT

Moderate Dealings Feature Close of Year On Market.

(By Associated Press) New York, Dec. 31.—Moderate dealings and uneven price movements featured the close of the year on the stock exchange. Few leaders of the railway and industrial divisions registered more than nominal changes. Interest and activity centered in speculative oils, steels, equipments, chemicals and specialties comprising the mail order and textile groups. Advances of 1 to 2 points in some of those shares were balanced by reactions of the same extent but the market steadied on short coverings in the later dealings.

Sales approximated 400,000 shares. The bond market was dull and featureless.

FEW LICENSES

Fishing Licenses Are Issued Very Slowly.

Up to the present time, Roy E. Zinn, County Treasurer, has issued only 20 fishing licenses. This is the first year that a license has been necessary for native fishermen and judging from the number of licenses issued will not meet with popular favor among the anglers. The price of the license is $1.10.

REPUBLIC FOR INDIA URGED

Leader of Moslem League Advocates Guerilla Warfare is Necessary.

BE DECLARED JANUARY 1

Chief of Non-Co-operating Movement Asked to Form Parallel Government With Its Own Parliament.

(By Associated Press) Ahmedabad, British India, Dec. 31—A plea for an Indian republic to be called the United States of India to be declared January 1 and to be attained by guerilla warfare if necessary was the principal feature of the address of President Hazrat Mohani, of the All-India Moslem League in opening the annual session of the league here today.

Mohani invited Mohandas Ganshi, leader of the non-co-operation movement, who was present, to form a parallel government with its own parliament and armies. Mohani admitted that such a government could not be maintained by peaceful means.

SEVERE STORM ON WAY

Warnings Issued. Colder Weather With New Year.

(By Associated Press) Washington, Dec. 31—The new year will be borne to the eastern half of the United States on the wings of the winds both figuratively and literally speaking, the forecast of the weather bureau indicates.

A disturbance descending from the frigid northwest was central early today over Lake Huron. The disturbance was described by the bureau as a severe storm attended by westerly gales and with the forecast that it would reach the Atlantic coast by night. A storm warning was issued for that portion of the coast between Norfolk, Virginia and Eastport, Maine.

Colder weather also will attend the coming of the new year, the bureau stating that lower temperatures might be expected tonight and Sunday in the lake region, the Ohio valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf states and by tomorrow in the Atlantic states north of Florida.

STOCK REPORT

Moderate Dealings Feature Close of Year On Market.

(By Associated Press) New York, Dec. 31—Moderate dealings and uneven price movements featured the close of the year on the stock exchange. Few leaders of the railway and industrial divisions registered more than nominal changes. Interest and activity centered in speculative oils, steels, equipments, chemicals and specialties comprising the mail order and textile groups. Advances of 1 to 2 points in some of those shares were balanced by reactions of the same extent but the market steadied on short coverings in the later dealings.

Sales approximated 400,000 shares. The bond market was dull and featureless.

PENROSE NO BETTER

Expects, However, To Resume Seat Next Wednesday.

(By Associated Press) Washington, Dec. 31—The condition of Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, who has been confined to his hotel for several days with a severe cold, was described today as about the same. It was said again at his office that the finance committee chairman undoubtedly will be able to resume his seat next Wednesday when the Senate convenes after the holiday recess.

OLE'S PLANS MUCH FOR YOUNGSTOWN

Spectacular Mayor-Elect Wants to Run City Like a Business.

CANDIDATE AS BIG JOKE

Freak Platform Won. Would Discontinue Trolley Car And Permit Supervised Spinning in Parks.

Youngstown, O., Dec. 31—George L. Oles, Youngstown's spectacular mayor-elect, arrived home recently from a vacation in Florida ready he said "clean up the city" and "fire anyone who doesn't obey orders when he takes office next Sunday."

Oles made political history here by running as an independent candidate defeating the Republican incumbent by over 500 votes and the Democratic candidate by over 5,000. The city auditor received a request from Oles in Florida asking for a "thorough invoice" of the city "just as if I were going to buy it."

"I want to know how much money the city of Youngstown owes," he wrote, "whom they owe it to and when it is due. I want to know who owes the city of Youngstown. I want to know where the money is coming from to pay the bills. I want to know what stocks we have on hand, such as horse feed and supplies, gasoline in the tanks, stationary and ink and lead pencils, also the amount of coal—and do not forget to state the amount of cash in the bank."

Shortly after the balloting Mayor Fred J. Warnock, defeated for re-election, issued a 2,000-word statement citing court decisions in an effort to show that Oles' promise to give his salary to charity constituted a bribe to the poor, and therefore disqualified him. Petitions to the courts were prepared, but were dropped and no contest now is in sight.

Oles went into the produce business in New Castle, Pennsylvania 20 years ago with a wheelbarrow and a barrel of potatoes as his sole stock in trade. After he had built up a flourishing business there in five years time he sold it to start a market in Youngstown, to be run on what he called a psychological principle. Oles began presenting eccentric newspaper advertising, based, he says, on Billy Sunday's evangelistic tactics, which he had seen in New Castle. Siam-bang statements about women's styles, his competitors, local politics and current topics soon won him a reputation.

During the mayoralty campaign Oles announced in his "ad" one day that he was going to run for mayor.

"I just started it for a joke," he said later. "But people took it seriously and pretty soon I took it seriously too."

At length Oles moved into a Youngstown hotel from his country home, to establish a legal residence, and began to give Youngstown its most spectacular political campaign. There was no organization by precincts and wards, but he and his wife held meetings all over the city—meetings for women only at which Mrs. Oles told what a fine husband and father Mr. Oles is, and meetings for men at which Mr. Oles rushed on the platform with arms in air shouting, "Here I am! Vote for Oles!"

Few persons professed to believe that Oles had a chance until the returns began to come in election night. Next day a check on admissions by various men who had challenged Oles to wagers brought out the fact that by taking all bets he could make enough to pay his campaign expenses and give himself and his family a trip to Florida.

At various times during the campaign Oles announced the following platform planks:

Discontinuance of street car service, and turning over the streets to jitneys.

Firing the whole police force if it didn't clean up the town.

Permit spooning in parks under police protection.

Jail anyone who paid taxes under a recent revaluation.

Tear up the Erie Railroad's tracks if it didn't eliminate down-town grade crossings.

After his election, however, there were indications that Oles was considering conservative policies, questioned about "firing" various officials whom he had named in the campaign he said he would have to inquire into the law. Concerning the street car plank, he said that the traffic problem was knotty, and required a great deal of study. Asked as to jailing tax-payers he said after election that he would jail anyone who broke the law.

BANK PRESIDENT SLAIN

Mustang, Okla., Dec. 31—E. W. Brindley, 35 years old, president of Mustang State Bank, was called from his home into the front yard late Thursday night, and shot and instantly killed by an unknown assailant.

clubs from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and some in towns smaller than Gettysburg all along the Lincoln Highway. York and Chambersburg both have motor clubs and both have been rendering valuable service to tourists who are unfamiliar with the road.

These organizations nearest Gettysburg both have club houses where the tourists may stop and where also the members of the local club gather for social events. Usually the club is in charge of some competent person who is familiar with the roads leading in all directions. In many of the club houses along the Lincoln Highway, lunch rooms have been installed as a source of profit.

Bureau of Information Besides bureaus of information and places for social events, the club usually stages an annual run to another motor club and it is expected that should the plan mature here, a run to Pittsburgh would be held next summer.

As more people motor into Gettysburg each year with the improved roads in all directions, the need for a central information station grows correspondingly, according to the backers of the proposed club. "Gettysburg has become the hub from which radiate in all directions, good roads," said one of the originators of the motor club idea, "and should come to be in a few years with suitable facilities the routing point for tourists in any direction."

No Club House Now Those who are working on the plans at the present time say that at first there will be an attempt made to buy a club house, but that the information bureau will be placed at one of the hotels. Plans are under way, however, whereby the members of the proposed motor club will have the privileges of a country club nearly for social purposes.

MASSAGE PARLORS VICE DENS

Grand Jury Indicts Three Chicago Women.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31—Grand jury indictments of three women, owners of massage parlors, on evidence of what State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe terms "gross and increasing secret immorality," were announced yesterday as the beginning of a campaign to rid Chicago of scores of such establishments.

"There are hundreds of these places in the city," said State's Attorney Crowe, "some of them, of course, are legitimate and respectable, principally those catering exclusively to women. But I can see nothing respectable about a place where girls bathe and massage men."

ROOT WITH HARDING

Washington, Dec. 31—Elihu Root, of the American armament delegation, was an early visitor at the White House yesterday and was closeted with President Harding for nearly two hours. The regular cabinet meeting was delayed for a time by the extended conference which, Mr. Root later asserted, dealt chiefly with the subject of the present situation of New England railroads.

LET'S HOPE THIS ONE REACHES THE GOAL

WILL BE FEWER SALES THIS YEAR

ten happened, especially, in the case of farm machinery that the farmer received more at the sale for his implements than he paid for them several years before.

While this was not the case last year, the season was one of many sales. Apparently the reaction has set in and the coming season will revert to the usual number of sales held before the war.

In 1919 The Times advertised in its columns 210 sales in the season and last year about 150. The last two years have been notable in the development of the farm sale because they marked a change in the methods of advertising. Previous to 1919 the majority used the sale bill method of advertising their goods, but in the last two years, the farmer was convinced that newspaper advertising was not only cheaper but by far the best result-getter. As was the case last year The Times will be the chief medium through which the sales will be advertised, because the paper goes in to every section of the county and insures wide publicity to sale lists.

Many, of course, will use the papers in the outlying districts, but they will advertise in The Times, too, in order to reach all sections.

Many sale dates have been selected and this list will appear in these columns next week. Those thinking of holding sales will then be able to determine the best dates available.

WATCH YOUR STEP IN 1922! THAT'S MESSAGE OF STARS

BY EVANGELINE ADAMS
World's Most Famous Astrologer
(Written Especially for NEA Service)

The fact that the sun and Venus will travel side by side during January, indicates more harmony may exist in the world and more will be accomplished along constructive lines.

In fact everything should be done to establish confidence and optimism, for unless there is a very material advance forward before the 3d of February, when Jupiter turns retrograde, I fear we can look for little real activity before the 6th of June, when Jupiter turns direct.

When Jupiter turns retrograde, as it will on the 3d of February to remain so until the 6th of June, a very restricting and depressing influence becomes evident in business.

During this period it will be well to try to bring to a successful termination matters already under way rather than to initiate any new ventures.

On the 8th of October Saturn will enter the sign of Libra and will remain therein through 1922.

This sign rules Japan, China, Austria, parts of India, upper Egypt, and the city of Denver in this country.

It is to be feared that these parts of the world will be in a most afflicted or war-like condition.

People born from March 20 to April 20; from June 22 to July 22; from September 24 to October 24; and from December 22 to January 21 should avoid overloading of the system.

During some part of the Libra period people born at these times are in danger of suffering from poor health and depressed business.

The world will be fortunate if there is not an epidemic which will attack the nervous system.

Surgeons will be unusually busy. If your birth date is between the 7th and 8th of February, the 8th and 30th of June, the 12th and 31st of October there will be a period during 1922 in which you will come under the influence of Jupiter, and experience an increase in influence.

There will be an auspicious period for the pressing of new undertakings and establishing of family ties. If you were born during the last few days of February, the first few days of March, the last few days of June, the first few days of July, the last few days of October or the first few days of November you will come under the influence of Uranus.

During the coming year you will find success will come easier. If you were born during the last few days of May, the first few days of June, during the first week of September or the first week in December you will come under the perverse influence of Uranus and will find that you must continually exert your will to keep from disastrous impulses or undertakings.

If you were born during the first 10 days of January, the last few days of March, the first 10 days of April, the first 12 days of July, the first 12 days of October or the last few days of December, you will be influenced by the evil aspects of the planet Saturn. You will find it necessary to guard your health.

WHY GIRLS ARE BAD

Loss of Love Object Given as The Cause.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 31—The "girl delinquent" was put under the psychologist's mental microscope Thursday, when the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce was turned into a psychiatrist's laboratory for the benefit of members of the American Sociological Society, in convention here.

Thursday's speakers said the reason for the girl thief, the girl of the streets and the girl drunkard was the loss of a "love object," the loss of illusions as to home and marriage and inadequacy of money or lack of education.

"In treating such cases, the social case worker calls in the psychiatrist's aid, gives the girl a psychometric test, in which the causes for certain characteristics are revealed. The worker's task then is to restore normal self-esteem or reduce abnormal sense of superiority growing out of successful antisocial acts."

Old Concern on Stock Exchange in Hands of Receiver. Grain Branch Affected.

New York, Dec. 31.—The worst is yet to come. This is the view of New Year's Eve taken by city officials still dealing with the dead and injured laid low by wood alcohol in Christmas drinking bouts.

The police are still seeking the source of the poisonous liquor with which the city has been deluged during the holidays, causing 11 known deaths and presumably a number of others which have not received official notice because the victims died without medical attendance.

Heavy Drinking Continues. Notwithstanding the death roll New Yorkers continued to swallow bootleg of unknown origin, as if warming up for the heavy drinking with which the New Year usually is ushered in here. The latest victim was a man who tumbled into the East river. Bellevue Hospital alone has received 49 poisonous liquor patients since Christmas Eve and private hospitals have had their quota.

Ralph A. Day, State Prohibition Director, said yesterday that his agents had traced one of the largest sources of bootleg supply to warehouses where alcohol in shipment from Canada to the Bahama Islands is stored. Bootleggers, working in collusion with warehouse employees, he said, had removed thousands of gallons of alcohol for local distribution. This alcohol, however, is not of the poisonous variety.

COUNT VERSED IN LOVE MAKING

Courtship of Royal Couple Was Not Without Its Romance.

London, Dec. 31.—Viscount Lascelles, the 39-year-old fiance of Princess Mary, is tall and slim, with a blond mustache. He has a soldierly bearing; is always well-dressed; a sportsman and a good after-dinner speaker. Consequently, his contemplated entry into the royal family of England is regarded with popular favor.

The courtship of the betrothed couple, according to accounts, has been real love making. They have ridden together in Rotten Row, and have walked together through London streets. Country house parties at which the Princess has visited have included Lord Lascelles among the guests. He was a guest at Sandringham during the recent stay of the royal family there. He went shooting with the King and the Princess, accompanied the guns. It was here that the mutual regard established at earlier meetings ripened into something more.

Lord Lascelles approached the King before proposing to the Princess, and the royal parents, like any well-ordered family, talked it over with their daughter. Princess Mary soon showed that she was as much in love as the Viscount, whereupon the King gave his consent to Lascelles paying his formal suit to the Princess.

The Viscount won golden opinions when fighting in France with his regiment, the Grenadier Guards. One of his fellow officers says that Lascelles never lost his cheerful smile even in the hottest fighting; the only exception being when tobacco ran short. "A baby millionaire and not a cigarette to bless myself with," he grumbled.

He had successfully circumvented many attempts made upon his single estate by matchmaking mothers and had come to be regarded as a confirmed bachelor. He was not supposed to be a "ladies' man" and his tastes ran more in the direction of sport. He is a hard rider to hounds and has lately established a pack in Yorkshire, of which he is the master.

Lord Clanricarde, from whom Lord Lascelles in 1916 inherited nearly £2,500,000, was supposed to be the worst dressed man in the House of Lords. The rent roll from his Irish estates ran into £30,000 a year.

The Lascelles' London residence, Chesterfield House, a famous Mayfair mansion fronted with tall columns and facing Hyde Park, was used as the headquarters of the League of Nations, until the League moved into its permanent offices at Geneva.

Harewood House, the Lascelles ancestral seat near Leeds, is remarkable for its 75 doors made of solid mahogany, which were made on the family's estates in Barbados. Most of the wealth of the Earl of Harewood, the prospective bridegroom's father, is derived from sugar plantations in the West Indies.

Harewood House has a wonderful collection of china, valued at $1,000,000 and surpassed in this country only by the Windsor collection. The family arms are two bears supporting a shield with a golden cross, with the motto "In solo Deo salus" (Salvation in God alone).

Country house parties at which the Princess has visited have included Lord Lascelles among the guests. He was a guest at Sandringham during the recent stay of the royal family there. He went shooting with the King and the Princess, accompanied the guns. It was here that the mutual regard established at earlier meetings ripened into something more.

Lord Lascelles approached the King before proposing to the Princess, and the royal parents, like any well-ordered family, talked it over with their daughter. Princess Mary soon showed that she was as much in love as the Viscount, whereupon the King gave his consent to Lascelles paying his formal suit to the Princess.

The Viscount won golden opinions when fighting in France with his regiment, the Grenadier Guards. One of his fellow officers says that Lascelles never lost his cheerful smile even in the hottest fighting; the only exception being when tobacco ran short. "A baby millionaire and not a cigarette to bless myself with," he grumbled.

He had successfully circumvented many attempts made upon his single estate by matchmaking mothers and had come to be regarded as a confirmed bachelor. He was not supposed to be a "ladies' man" and his tastes ran more in the direction of sport. He is a hard rider to hounds and has lately established a pack in Yorkshire, of which he is the master.

Lord Clanricarde, from whom Lord Lascelles in 1916 inherited nearly £2,500,000, was supposed to be the worst dressed man in the House of Lords. The rent roll from his Irish estates ran into £30,000 a year.

The Lascelles' London residence, Chesterfield House, a famous Mayfair mansion fronted with tall columns and facing Hyde Park, was used as the headquarters of the League of Nations, until the League moved into its permanent offices at Geneva.

Harewood House, the Lascelles ancestral seat near Leeds, is remarkable for its 75 doors made of solid mahogany, which were made on the family's estates in Barbados. Most of the wealth of the Earl of Harewood, the prospective bridegroom's father, is derived from sugar plantations in the West Indies.

Harewood House has a wonderful collection of china, valued at $1,000,000 and surpassed in this country only by the Windsor collection. The family arms are two bears supporting a shield with a golden cross, with the motto "In solo Deo salus" (Salvation in God alone).

DEBS FREED BUT NOT FORGIVEN

Release Was "Act of Grace," Says Attorney General Daugherty.

OFFENSE NOT CONDONED

Danger Seen in Prolonged Imprisonment. His Punishment Great Lesson to Country And World.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist leader, was granted his freedom from Atlanta Federal Penitentiary on Christmas by President Harding solely as an "act of grace"; his violation of the law laws remain unforgiven by the Government. This was disclosed last night by Attorney General Daugherty, who made public the text of his recommendations to the President in the Debs case.

"It will be observed," Mr. Daugherty said, "that a pardon was not granted Debs, but that his sentence was commuted. The action of the President in no wise condones the offense and the relief was solely an act of grace. The gratitude of Debs will be measured by his conduct in the future."

Same Policy Toward All

The Administration's theory of action in the Debs case, according to Mr. Daugherty, is to be considered as the Government policy in relation to others imprisoned for violation of the war laws, of which class of offenders "probably no better case could be selected," he declared, "than that of Debs."

"Regarding this class of so-called 'political prisoners,' as they are termed by those who are demanding their release," Mr. Daugherty said, "there is no real reason why they should be treated any differently than any other persons who violate the law, aside from the fact that many of them, as well as their friends and associates on the outside, actually believe and are sincere in their belief that they have violated no just law and were strictly within their constitutional rights in their public utterances which have been found to be in violation of the Espionage Act."

Others "Past Reason"

"Of course, there are others among them who were and are actively, consciously disloyal to our Government and who contemplate and intend to disrupt and overthrow our present form of government whenever opportunity presents itself, and are working to that end. As for them, nothing need be said. They are past reason and the only argument that can understand is the heavy arm of the law. They have been justly and wisely convicted and must suffer the penalty of their misdeeds."

In reaching his decision regarding Debs, the Attorney General reviewed the history of the case, quoting copiously from the speech delivered by Debs before the Socialist convention at Canton, Ohio, in 1918, pointing out that the constitutionality of Debs' conviction was upheld by the Supreme Court and asserting that this was the second time Debs had "set up his theories of government against the Government itself"—referring to the so-called Pullman strike in 1894.

THOUSANDS DIE BY FLOOD IN CHINA

New Horrors Reported by Minister. Famine Follows Sudden Rise in Waters.

New York, Dec. 31.—New floods sweeping over vast sections of China and followed by famine have killed thousands and left hundreds of thousands starving.

This was the message received yesterday by the Episcopal Department of Missions from Rev. Edmund J. Lee, secretary of the International Famine Relief Committee at Ahnwei.

Yellow River Overflows

The Yellow river, which last August overflowed its banks, flooding a large part of the Province of Shantung, again has risen, this time covering great tracts in Shantung, Kiangsu and Anhwei and finding a new outlet to the sea.

"So suddenly did the flood come that great numbers were unable to escape," wrote the clergyman. "Whole villages were swept away and thousands were drowned."

Hwai River Bursts Banks

"In Anhwei Province the Hwai river burst its banks and has become one great inland sea. Large parts of 13 counties are submerged, the flooded area comprising about 10,000 square miles."

Other reports received at Episcopal headquarters indicated that several lakes had been formed over enormous tracts formerly under cultivation and that it was impossible to drain many sections. This would mean that the dispossessed would be unable to return to their ruined villages and would be dependent on famine relief the rest of the winter.

An international famine relief society has been organized in Ankang, including the Governor, Military Governor and Bishop Huntington.

WOMAN LAWBREAKER

Female Goes After Thing She Wants, Says Novelist.

New York, Dec. 31.—"Woman is a natural lawbreaker. Man is the law-maker. But woman's tendency is to go in by the door marked 'out'. She looks on the law as an outrage. It's because woman is more governed by desire than man is. The difference between the feminine and masculine mind is that woman tends to go after the thing she wants, and man tends to go after the thing that ought to be."

Thus did W. L. George, famous English novelist, lecturer and scintillant feminist, reply to a question concerning the most striking point of psychological differences between the eternal feminine and the quite as eternal masculine. Mr. George, whose arrival on the pier here was an imposing thing requiring three and a half hours to accomplish, according to his story, has come to America for a lecture tour.

With him is his bride, a sweet-faced, soft-voiced English girl whose present life, she said, is given over principally to wondering how her distinguished husband happened to fall in love with her, and to happiness that he did.

IT MAY BE TRUE

Gold Story Interesting if Highly Improbable.

Goldsboro, N. C., Dec. 31.—Several days ago three strange men from the North came to this city with what appeared to be a light camping outfit, suit cases, rods, etc. They hired an automobile at the Union Station, piled their outfit in it and went out to Lane's farm, two miles south of this city, an old "fo-de-war" plantation.

Persons living in the neighborhood watched the three strangers and saw them going about from place to place measuring with their rods. At last they came to a halt and commenced digging.

After digging five or six feet down in the ground they came to what they were looking for—a pot of gold—said to have contained $50,000 or more. The gold was quickly placed in their suit cases, they hurried back to Goldsboro that night, and boarded a northbound train and left for parts unknown. After the strangers left, people who had been watching them hurried to the scene and found that they had dug deep down in the ground until they came to what may have been a concrete vault, built before the Civil War where the pot of gold had been buried for many, many years.

GET COURSE IN BOMBS

State policemen in training at the Newville barracks have been taking courses in the use of tear gas bombs for "smoking out" people who hide in houses and for other emergency use. Most of the men in the State Police force are veterans of overseas, and many of them have had experience with gases in actual fighting. The tear gas being tried has been tested by the officers of the force themselves and will be employed only when other means fail.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

AVE ATQUE VALE

GOODBYE, then, 1921:

You were a good friend, in the main;
You brought a little more of fun,
And happiness, than woe and pain,
I don't think that we can complain
About the deal we got from you;
Goodbye—oh, here's your hat and cane!—
Hello there, 1922!

WE greet you very gladly, son;
Grim warts that've seen the old year wane,
We'll watch you wax. You have begun
In hopeful style; can you maintain
Your present pace without a strain?
If so there's much that you can do
Which in the past we've sought in vain—
Hello there, 1922!

PERHAPS you'll teach us how to shun
Grim warts that split the world in twain;
And by your magic may be spun
About the world a golden skein
Of love and peace. Ah, we are fair
To have a hope like that come true,
A hope that thrills the heart and brain.
Hello there, 1922!

ENVOY

YOU come to bless and not to bane,
And now the old year's done and through,
We wish you luck throughout your reign—
Hello there, 1922!

CHANCE FOR MORE FEDERAL MONEY

Secretary of Agriculture shall give preference to such projects as will expedite the completion of an adequate and connected system of highways, interstate in character." At the same time the importance of local traffic will not be minimized. To care for that class of traffic will always be, in general, the first objective of highway improvement. Wherever possible a choice of highway will be made which, regardless of the order of improvement, will eventually join into a well-conceived network, crossing both county and State boundaries. Thus, while the immediate needs of a State or district may determine priority of construction, each new link will bring nearer the completion of the system as a whole.

Each district engineer of the department is fully informed as to the procedure for interim projects which is so simplified that if important projects are chosen in good faith there will be no delay in obtaining approval for them.

The greatest traffic problems lie in the eastern States, some of which already have a large mileage of improved roads. It will be a comparatively short time, because of new construction and better maintenance, until the transcontinental tourist will be provided with roads that are entirely serviceable throughout the seasons of the year when other conditions favor such traffic.

The Big-Road Problem is in Densely Settled Sections.

The really serious traffic problems lie around and between large centers of population. Rapid multiplication in the numbers of automobiles and motor trucks—the number in 1921 being 18 times what it was in 1910—have accentuated the seriousness of the problem. For roads built previous to the advent of the dense motor traffic, alignments, widths, and types were planned for use of the slower, lighter, horse-drawn vehicles. Traffic lines are from town to town and generally follow through the most congested parts of population centers.

CAPTAIN R. J. BOYD

Captain R. J. Boyd, a native of Adams county, died Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home at Upton Franklin county, of uraemic poisoning. He had lived until January 4, 1922, he would have been 88 years old.

Captain Boyd was born in Adams county on January 4, 1834, a son of John and Catherine Boyd, the former from England and the latter from Ireland. He completed the preparatory courses at Marshall College, Mercersburg, and for a time clerked in merchandise stores at that place. In 1853 he established a business house at Upton, where he lived the remainder of his life. He had been in business at Upton for over 50 years, first for himself and then as a member of the firms of Boyd & Cook and later Cook, Boyd & Frye. He retired from active business pursuits about 15 years ago.

During the Civil War, Captain Boyd enlisted in Co. K. Twenty-first Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, and served a month over his period of enlistment, six months. He was chosen to command the company with the rank of captain. At the termination of his enlistment he returned to Upton and engaged in business in the mercantile line. Two years ago Captain Boyd lost his eyesight.

YORK STICKS TO HORSES

Farmers There Do Not Take to Motorized Equipment.

The tractor and the jitney have not pushed the horse into oblivion on York county farms. The Federal census just available credits York county with 15,222 horses. This county is second only to Lancaster and Franklin in the number of horses retained in service on farms. The total value of these animals is $1,719,599.

MANY HERE HAVE NO LICENSE TAGS

State Highway Department Indicates no Leniency For The Late Ones.

A number of people in Gettysburg and throughout the county are included in the 300,000 motor car owners who have not yet received their license tags for 1922.

The state highway department has served notice to the police departments of Pennsylvania cities that sufficient warnings were sent out and enough time allowed for every motorist to obtain his plates for the new year, so that all displaying 1921 tags are liable to arrest and a fine of at most $100.

On Saturday the lineup continued at the doors of the Highway Department, the shivering motorists waiting for hours to get their turns at the window.

Highway Department officials announced that no plans had been made for extension of 1921 automobile licenses and that the law would be enforced. It was pointed out this was the ninth week in which licenses could be obtained. The automobile division was fairly swamped Saturday by mail applications, over 10,000 being received, while long lines of persons, including many messengers from other places were at the offices for counter sales. Not 500,000 applications have been received as yet, while 750,000 may be the total.

TO PUT LIFE IN MONT ALTO PARK

Extensive Program is Announced For Mountain Resort Next Season.

An extensive program of amusements, both inspirational and informative, is outlined for Pine Forest Camp at Mont Alto in the January issue of the "Pine Forest News Letter."

In order to provide adequate facilities for proper presentation of the many features listed many changes will be made at the park. It says:

"In addition to remodeling the present buildings we plan to restore many of the smaller pieces which helped make the old park attractive. There will be also a large swimming pool, an assembly hall and a cottage building program. While the completion of some of these structures must necessarily be deferred, a glance at the program will convince all that the program will not be required to wait."

The program for the 1922 season includes: twelve days of Sunday school workers training conference; six days of Chautauqua program. Five days of Christian Endeavor school of methods; Christian Endeavor reunion (August 17); annual picnic merchants of Waynesboro (August 31); special programs for July 4 and Labor Day; eleven week-ends with special programs of music and lecture; supervised play.

Beginning July 4 there will be a regular park orchestra which will give musical programs each evening during July and August and on certain afternoons. The orchestra is being selected and trained by Glenn Brosius, of Mont Alto, a graduate of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, and a soloist and orchestra violinist and leader.

During Chautauqua weeks Tuesdays and Fridays will be dance evenings, 9 to 11:30. The park orchestra will furnish the music. These dances will be open to Chautauqua patrons only. Mondays and Wednesdays of Chautauqua weeks will be given to after-Chautauqua social and recreational programs under the supervision of the park recreational director. Campfires and fireside program will be carried out for the benefit of our Chautauqua patrons.

CONFIDENT OF RATIFYING TREATY

Irish Public Opinion Has Consolidated in Favor of Pact With England.

Dublin, Jan. 2.—Members of the Dail Eireann who have been spending the holidays at their homes are beginning to return to Dublin for the resumption of the sessions of the Dail on Tuesday.

Irish public opinion seemingly has consolidated in favor of the peace treaty with Great Britain during the last week and the supporters of the treaty in the Dail yesterday expressed far more confidence of ratification of the document than at any time since the debate opened.

Their most conservative estimates are for a majority of about twelve and in setting that figure they declare that they leave out of consideration the possibility of a considerable number of the opponents of the treaty abstaining from voting. Estimates of the sentiment of the people throughout the country on the issue vary from 75 to 95 per cent in favor of the treaty.

At a meeting of the Irish Commercial travelers' federation at Mansion House Saturday night, President Holland said with regard to the sentiment of the country on the question, "There is nobody in Ireland who knows the pulse of the people better than the commercial traveler, and therefore, I can state that 95 per cent of the people are in favor of the treaty."

Out of all the local boards throughout the south and west of Ireland which have expressed themselves with regard to the treaty, the hentry board of guardians still stands alone as opposed to its acceptance.

JACKIES IN FIGHT

American Sailors in Brawl With Italians in Shanghai.

(By Associated Press)

Shanghai, Jan. 2.—Serious trouble between sailors from Italian and American warships developed today when a band of forty Italian sailors surprised and attacked about a dozen jackies in a cafe and then went from one restaurant to another attacking isolated bands of Americans. Five jackies sustained knife wounds, and two were severely stabbed. The trouble was the outgrowth of a trifling brawl in a cafe. All shore liberties from warcraft have been suspended as a result.

One of the wounded Americans, D. J. Rebbe, of the gunboat Wilmington, died later from his injuries.

The following were guests at New Year's dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Rice, of Bendersville: Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Slaybaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rice, Mr. and Mrs. George Slaybaugh, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Joseph Wahley, Mrs. Carrie Beamer, Misses Gladys, Pearl and Margaret Slaybaugh, Grace Slaybaugh, Edna and Carrie Rice, Mary June Rice, Lewis Rice, Wilmore and John Slaybaugh, Isabel Slaybaugh, Earl Raymond and Clair Slaybaugh, Mildred, Ethel and Olive Beamer.

LOWER FARES TO BIG FARM SHOW

Special Concession Granted by Railroads Taking People to Harrisburg.

Reduced railroad rates from all points in Pennsylvania will be granted to those persons attending the agricultural conventions and educational meetings to be held in connection with the Sixth Annual State Farm Products Show at Harrisburg, January 23-27. The tickets will be good for three days.

In order to secure the reduction in rates it will be necessary for the farmers to secure tickets from their county agents or from the secretary of one of the organizations which meets in conjunction with the show. Full fare will be paid going to Harrisburg and after the ticket has been issued, the return ticket will be sold at half fare.

The fact that more than 35,000 persons attended the farm products show last year and that even a larger number is expected this year lead the railroad companies to grant the concession.

Plans for the show and attendant educational meetings are progressing rapidly. Tons of exhibits have already been shipped to Harrisburg from all sections of the state. These have been placed in cold storage. More than 65,000 square feet of floor space has been secured for the show alone, while every available meeting place in Harrisburg has been leased for the holding of the educational meetings.

Really Time Wasted.

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown.—The following officers for the ensuing year, were elected after services in the Reformed church: trustee, Jonas Hildebrand; deacons, Reuben Alland and Lester Hoover; elders, Jeremiah Lillich and Samuel J. Meckley.

Miss Eva Zartman spent the week-end with friends in York and Dover. Professor Joseph W. March and Miss Marian Davis, Scranton, were guests of Professor March's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. March, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kinneman and Edward Steffan, Hanover, spent Thursday with Mr. Kinneman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinneman.

Miss Clara Wolf, York, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Wolf.

Mrs. Thomas Ural and son, Thomas, spent several days last week with friends in Spring Grove and York.

SUICIDE BY GAS

Police. Notified By Neighbor, Find Body Of Man.

Cambridge, Md., Jan. 2.—Walter T. Stevens, 55 years old, committed suicide here yesterday by fastening a tube leading from the gas jet into his mouth. He was found by police who were notified by Dr. P. P. Parry. After entrance was gained by breaking the door leading into his print shop, where he slept and worked, the police found him lying on a bed.

Dr. Payne, who lives next door to the print shop, detected the gas fumes when he arose. The dead man was said to have been married twice. The motive for his act is believed to have been despondency over ill health.

CHILDREN'S MANNERS

Whatever you do, do wisely and think of the consequences.—Lester Romanoun.

THE minute a child begins to eat with the assistance of its own small hands, the first lesson in table manners must begin. There is little excuse for the disgusting table manners of some children. They are due, really, to the fact that the mother or other caretaker finds it too trouble to let the child search aimlessly for its small mouth than to insist that it locate it daintily, surely and without experiment.

A very small child can be taught to eat nicely. Teach it that spooned bits are beneath contempt. Patiently show it how to hold its spoon and cup, and help it to eat slowly. The lesson is a hard one for the teacher as well as for the child. But perseverance is the only way. And once the child has learned to eat daintily, the slovenly ways of untrained children when they are eating will be as distasteful to it as you would find them in a grown person.

Remember that children ape the manners of their elders. For this reason the greatest care should be used in the choosing of nursemaids, governesses or any one else who comes in constant contact with the child. Many well known men have talked, when excited, to their dying day in the brogue or burr of their childhood nurses.

And who can doubt that much of the gentleness of character and strength of spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson were inspired in him by the dear old nurse to whom he dedicated his "Child's Garden of Verse?"

The imitative method is the easiest whereby a child may acquire its manners. The small boy who adores his gallant father seldom forgets to take off his hat and stand in the presence of women. The small girl who looks up to her mother with affection is the pattern of loving courtesy to her father. Children often affect the graces of their elders in a most laughable way. But don't laugh at them. They will outgrow this priggishness. It is only a case of their imitative acquisition of manners.

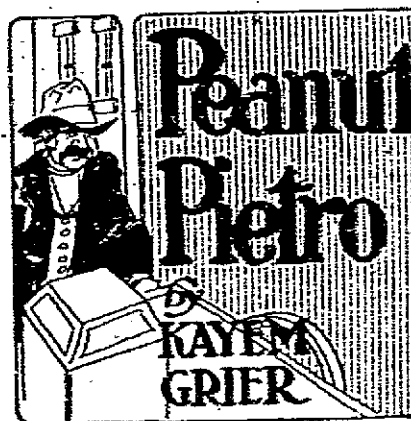

It is the vogue of the day for small girls, up to the age of ten or twelve, to curtsy when they meet their elders. After that they like small boys, stand and shake hands. It is also proper for children to be quiet and unobtrusive when they are in the company of grown-ups.

Some of the set rules of children's manners, like these, they cannot learn by imitation. But if they are courteous, thoughtful and happy they will take an interest in acquiring these little superficial manners that will make their acquisition easy.

another's glasses. At 11 o'clock the pastor preached a sermon, the title of which was "While I Was Missing, the Fire Burned." Shortly before 12 o'clock, the congregation knelt in prayer until the town clock struck midnight, after which the meeting closed with the benediction.

At the Trinity Reformed Church, in addition to a watch service, the pastor, Rev. Paul R. Pontius, conducted preparatory services for the Holy Communion administered Sunday. The new year services began at 10:45 with an organ prelude played by Mrs. Carrie Pretz, after which the pastor preached a sermon on the subject "Old Things Made New." Following the sermon, a prayer of grace for the old year was offered and after the clock had struck midnight, a prayer of consecration was offered for the new year.

A similar prayer and watch service was held in the Asbury M. E. Zion church, South Washington street, by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Robinson.

The girl with some height, a certain air of dignity and elegance must have length of garment and sweeping lines. She finds herself looking her best in gowns of the type of this Potrer negligee, which cleverly combines cloth of gold and red velvet broadened with gold.

The Land of Blades. Japan is called "the land of blades" by its own people, some of the oldest scholars having declared that the first sword was invented by the same god who invented poetry. A number of swords in Japan was ever highly honored among his fellow mechanics. An unusually skillful and artistic smith sometimes was recipient of high military rank, a yearly pension, or was even raised to the lordship of the province in which he dwelt.

OLES PLANS MUCH FOR YOUNGSTOWN

Spectacular Mayor-Elect Wants to Run City Like a Business.

CANDIDATE AS BIG JOKE

Freak Platform Won. Would Discontinue Trolley Car And Permit Supervised Spinning in Parks.

Youngstown, O., Dec. 31—George L. Oles, Youngstown's spectacular mayor-elect, arrived home recently from a vacation in Florida ready he said to "clean up the city" and "Fire anyone who doesn't obey orders when he takes office next Sunday."

Oles made political history here by running as an independent candidate defeating the Republican incumbent by over 500 votes and the Democratic candidate by over 5,000. The city auditor received a request from Oles in Florida asking for a "thorough invoice" of the city "just as if I were going to buy it."

"I want to know how much money the city of Youngstown owes," he wrote, "whom they owe it to and when it is due. I want to know who owes the city of Youngstown. I want to know where the money is coming from to pay the bills. I want to know what stocks we have on hand, such as horse feed and supplies, gasoline in the tanks, stationary and ink and lead pencils, also the amount of coal—and do not forget to state the amount of cash in the bank."

Shortly after the bailing Mayor Fred J. Warnock, defeated for re-election, issued a 2,000-word statement citing court decisions in an effort to show that Oles' promise to give his salary to charity constituted a bribe to the poor, and therefore disqualified him. Petitions to the courts were prepared, but were dropped and no contest now is in sight.

Oles went into the produce business in New Castle, Pennsylvania 20 years ago with a wheelbarrow and a barrel of potatoes as his sole stock in trade. After he had built up a flourishing business there in five years time he sold it to start a market in Youngstown, to be run on what he called a psychological principle. Oles began presenting eccentric newspaper advertising, based, he says, on Billy Sunday's evangelistic tactics, which he had seen in New Castle. Slam-bang statements about women's styles, his competitors, local politics and current topics soon won him a reputation.

During the mayoralty campaign Oles announced in his "ad" one day that he was going to run for mayor.

"I just started it for a joke," he said later. "But people took it seriously and pretty soon I took it seriously too."

At length Oles moved into a Youngstown hotel from his country home, to establish a legal residence, and began to give Youngstown its most spectacular political campaign. There was no organization by precincts and wards, but he and his wife held meetings all over the city—meetings for women only at which Mrs. Oles told what a fine husband and father Mr. Oles is, and meetings for men at which Mr. Oles rushed on the platform with arms in air, shouting: "Here I am! Vote for Oles!"

Few persons professed to believe that Oles had a chance until the returns began to come in election night. Next day a check on admissions by various men who had challenged Oles to wagers brought out the fact that by taking all bets he could make enough to pay his campaign expenses and give himself and his family a trip to Florida.

At various times during the campaign Oles announced the following platform planks:

Discontinuance of street car service, and turning over the streets to jitneys.

Firing the whole police force if it didn't clean up the town.

Permit spinning in parks under police protection.

Jail anyone who paid taxes under a recent revaluation.

Tear up the Erie Railroad's tracks if it didn't eliminate down-town grade crossings.

After his election, however, there were indications that Oles was considering conservative policies, questioned about "firing" various officials whom he had named in the campaign he said he would have to inquire into the law. Concerning the street car plank, he said that the traffic problem was knotty, and required a great deal of study. Asked as to jailing tax-payers he said after election that he would jail anyone who broke the law.

clubs from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia and some in towns smaller than Gettysburg all along the Lincoln Highway. York and Chambersburg both have motor clubs and both have been rendering valuable service to tourists who are unfamiliar with the road.

These organizations nearest Gettysburg both have club houses where the tourists may stop and where also the members of the local club gather for social events. Usually the club is in charge of some competent person who is familiar with the roads leading in all directions. In many of the club houses along the Lincoln Highway, lunch rooms have been installed as a source of profit.

Bureau of Information Besides bureaus of information and places for social events, the club usually stages an annual run to another motor club and it is expected that should the plan mature here, a run to Pittsburgh would be held next summer.

As more people motor into Gettysburg each year with the improved roads in all directions, the need for a central information station grows correspondingly, according to the backers of the proposed club. "Gettysburg has become the hub from which radiate in all directions, good roads," said one of the originators of the motor club idea, "and should come to be in a few years with suitable facilities the routing point for tourists in any direction."

No Club House Now Those who are working on the plans at the present time say that at first there will be an attempt made to buy a club house, but that the information bureau will be placed at some convenient point, preferably in one of the hotels. Plans are under way, however, whereby the members of the proposed motor club will have the privileges of a country club nearby for social purposes.

MASSAGE PARLORS VICE DENS

Grand Jury Indicts Three Chicago Women.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31—Grand jury indictments of three women, owners of massage parlors, on evidence of what State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe terms "gross and increasing secret immorality," were announced yesterday as the beginning of a campaign to rid Chicago of scores of such establishments.

"There are hundreds of these places in the city," said State's Attorney Crowe, "some of them, of course, are legitimate and respectable, principally those catering exclusively to women. But I can see nothing respectable about a place where girls bathe and massage men."

ROOT WITH HARDING

Washington, Dec. 31—Elihu Root, of the American armament delegation, was an early visitor at the White House yesterday and was closeted with President Harding for nearly two hours. The regular cabinet meeting was delayed for a time by the extended conference which, Mr. Root later asserted, dealt chiefly with the subject of the present situation of New England railroads.

WILL BE FEWER SALES THIS YEAR

ten happened, especially, in the case of farm machinery that the farmer received more at the sale for his implements than he paid for them several years before.

While this was not the case last year, the season was one of many sales. Apparently the reaction has set in and the coming season will revert to the usual number of sales held before the war.

In 1919 The Times advertised in its columns 210 sales in the season and last year about 150. The last two years have been notable in the development of the farm sale because they marked a change in the methods of advertising. Previous to 1919 the majority used the sale bill method of advertising their goods, but in the last two years, the farmer was convinced that newspaper advertising was not only cheaper but by far the best result-getter. As was the case last year The Times will be the chief medium through which the sales will be advertised, because the paper goes into every section of the county and lists reverse wide publicity to sale lists. Many, of course, will use the papers in the outlying districts, but they will advertise in The Times, too, in order to reach all sections. Many sale dates have been selected and this list will appear in these columns next week. Those thinking of holding sales will then be able to determine the best dates available.

WATCH YOUR STEP IN 1922! THAT'S MESSAGE OF STARS

BY EVANGELINE ADAMS

World's Most Famous Astrologer

(Written Especially for NEA Service) The fact that the sun and Venus will travel side by side during January, indicates more harmony may exist in the world and more will be accomplished along constructive lines.

In fact everything should be done to establish confidence and optimism, for unless there is a very material advance forward before the 3d of February, when Jupiter turns retrograde, I fear we can look for little real activity before the 6th of June, when Jupiter turns direct.

When Jupiter turns retrograde, as it will on the 3d of February to remain so until the 6th of June, a very restricting and depressing influence becomes evident in business.

During this period it will be well to try to bring to a successful termination matters already under way rather than to initiate any new ventures.

On the 8th of October Saturn will enter the sign of Libra and will remain therein through 1922.

This sign rules Japan, China, Austria, parts of India, upper Egypt, and the city of Denver in this country.

It is to be feared that these parts of the world will be in a most afflicted or war-like condition.

People born from March 20 to April 20; from June 22 to July 22; from September 24 to October 24, and from December 22 to January 21 should avoid overloading of the system.

During some part of the Libra period people born at these times are in danger of suffering from poor health and depressed business.

The world will be fortunate if there is not an epidemic which will attack the nervous system.

Surgeons will be unusually busy.

If your birth date is between the 7th and 8th of February, the 8th and 30th of June, the 12th and 31st of October there will be a period during 1922 in which you will come under the influence of Jupiter, and experience an increase in influence.

There will be an auspicious period for the pressing of new undertakings and establishing of family ties.

If you were born during the last few days of February, the first few days of March, the last few days of June, the first few days of July, the last few days of October or the first few days of November you will come under the influence of Uranus.

During the coming year you will find success will come easier.

If you were born during the last few days of May, the first few days of June, during the first week of September or the first week in December you will come under the perverse influence of Uranus and will find that you must continually exert your will to keep from disastrous impulses or undertakings.

If you were born during the first 10 days of January, the last few days of March, the first 10 days of April, the first 12 days of July, the first 12 days of October or the last few days of December, you will be influenced by the evil aspects of the planet Saturn. You will find it necessary to guard your health.

Why Girls Are Bad Loss of Love Object Given as The Cause.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 31—The "girl delinquent" was put under the psychologist's mental microscope Thursday, when the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce was turned into a psychiatrist's laboratory for the benefit of members of the American Sociological Society, in convention here.

Thursday's speakers said the reason for the girl thief, the girl of the streets and the girl drunkard was the loss of a "love object," the loss of illusions as to home and marriage and inadequacy of money or lack of education.

"In treating such cases, the social case worker calls in the psychiatrist's aid, gives the girl a psychometric test, in which the causes for certain characteristics are revealed. The worker's task then is to restore normal self-esteem or reduce abnormal sense of superiority growing out of successful antisocial acts."

Secretary of Agriculture shall give preference to such projects as will expedite the completion of an adequate and connected system of highways, interstate in character." At the same time the importance of local traffic will not be minimized. To care for that class of traffic will always be, in general, the first objective of highway improvement. Wherever possible a choice of highway will be made which, regardless of the order of improvement, will eventually join into a well-conceived network, crossing both county and State boundaries. Thus, while the immediate needs of a State or district may determine priority of construction, each new link will bring nearer the completion of the system as a whole.

Each district engineer of the department is fully informed as to the procedure for interim projects which is so simplified that if important projects are chosen in good faith there will be no delay in obtaining approval for them.

The greatest traffic problems lie in the eastern States, some of which already have a large mileage of improved roads. It will be a comparatively short time, because of new construction and better maintenance, until the transcontinental tourist will be provided with roads that are entirely serviceable throughout the seasons of the year when other conditions favor such traffic.

The Big-Road Problem is in Densely Settled Sections.

The really serious traffic problems lie around and between large centers of population. Rapid multiplication in the numbers of automobiles and motor trucks—the number in 1921 being 18 times what it was in 1910—have accentuated the seriousness of the problem. For roads built previous to the advent of the dense motor traffic, alignments, widths, and types were planned for use of the slower, lighter, horse-drawn vehicles. Traffic lines are from town to town and generally follow through the most congested parts of population centers.

CAPTAIN R. J. BOYD

Captain R. J. Boyd, a native of Adams county, died Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home at Upton Franklin county, of uraemic poisoning. He had lived until January 4, 1922, he would have been 88 years old.

Captain Boyd was born in Adams county on January 4, 1834, a son of John and Catherine Boyd, the former from England and the latter from Ireland. He completed the preparatory courses at Marshall College, Mercersburg, and for a time clerked in merchandise stores at that place. In 1853 he established a business house at Upton, where he lived the remainder of his life. He had been in business at Upton for over 50 years, first for himself and then as a member of the firms of Boyd & Cook and later Cook, Boyd & Frye. He retired from active business pursuits about 15 years ago.

During the Civil War, Captain Boyd enlisted in Co. K. Twenty-first Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, and served a month over his period of enlistment, six months. He was chosen to command the company with the rank of captain. At the termination of his enlistment he returned to Upton and engaged in business in the mercantile line. Two years ago Captain Boyd lost his eyesight.

YORK STICKS TO HORSES

Farmers There Do Not Take to Motorized Equipment.

The tractor and the jitney have not pushed the horse into oblivion on York county farms. The Federal census just available credits York county with 15,222 horses. This county is second only to Lancaster and Franklin in the number of horses retained in service on farms. The total value of these animals is $1,719,599.

MANY HERE HAVE NO LICENSE TAGS

State Highway Department Indicates no Leniency For The Late Ones.

A number of people in Gettysburg and throughout the county are included in the 300,000 motor car owners who have not yet received their license tags for 1922.

The state highway department has served notice to the police departments of Pennsylvania cities that sufficient warnings were sent out and enough time allowed for every motorist to obtain his plates for the new year, so that all displaying 1921 tags are liable to arrest and a fine of at most $100.

On Saturday the lineup continued at the doors of the Highway Department, the shivering motorists waiting for hours to get their turns at the window.

Highway Department officials announced that no plans had been made for extension of 1921 automobile licenses and that the law would be enforced. It was pointed out this was the ninth week in which licenses could be obtained. The automobile division was fairly swamped Saturday by mail applications, over 10,000 being received, while long lines of persons, including many messengers from other places were at the offices for counter sales. Not 500,000 applications have been received as yet, while 750,000 may be the total.

TO PUT LIFE IN MONT ALTO PARK

Extensive Program is Announced For Mountain Resort Next Season.

An extensive program of amusements, both inspirational and informative, is outlined for Pine Forest Camp at Mont Alto in the January issue of the "Pine Forest News Letter."

In order to provide adequate facilities for proper presentation of the many features listed many changes will be made at the park. It says:

"In addition to remodeling the present buildings we plan to restore many of the smaller pieces which helped make the old park attractive. There will be also a large swimming pool, an assembly hall and a cottage building program. While the completion of some of these structures must necessarily be deferred, a glance at the program will convince all that the program will not be required to wait."

The program for the 1922 season includes: twelve days of Sunday school workers training conference; six days of Chautauqua program. Five days of Christian Endeavor school of methods; Christian Endeavor reunion (August 17); annual picnic merchants of Waynesboro (August 31); special programs for July 4 and Labor Day; eleven week-ends with special programs of music and lecture; supervised play.

Beginning July 4 there will be a regular park orchestra which will give musical programs each evening during July and August and on certain afternoons. The orchestra is being selected and trained by Glenn Brosius, of Mont Alto, a graduate of Peabody Institute, Baltimore, and a soloist and orchestra violinist and leader.

During Chautauqua weeks Tuesdays and Fridays will be dance evenings, 9 to 11:30. The park orchestra will furnish the music. These dances will be open to Chautauqua patrons only. Mondays and Wednesdays of Chautauqua weeks will be given to after-Chautauqua social and recreational programs under the supervision of the park recreational director. Campfires and fireside program will be carried out for the benefit of our Chautauqua patrons.

CONFIDENT OF RATIFYING TREATY

Irish Public Opinion Has Consolidated in Favor of Pact With England.

Dublin, Jan. 2.—Members of the Dail Eireann who have been spending the holidays at their homes are beginning to return to Dublin for the resumption of the sessions of the Dail on Tuesday.

Irish public opinion seemingly has consolidated in favor of the peace treaty with Great Britain during the last week and the supporters of the treaty in the Dail yesterday expressed far more confidence of ratification of the document than at any time since the debate opened.

Their most conservative estimates are for a majority of about twelve and in setting that figure they declare that they leave out of consideration the possibility of a considerable number of the opponents of the treaty abstaining from voting. Estimates of the sentiment of the people throughout the country on the issue vary from 75 to 95 per cent in favor of the treaty.

At a meeting of the Irish Commercial travelers' federation at Mansion House Saturday night, President Holland said with regard to the sentiment of the country on the question, "There is nobody in Ireland who knows the pulse of the people better than the commercial traveler, and therefore, I can state that 95 per cent of the people are in favor of the treaty."

Out of all the local boards throughout the south and west of Ireland which have expressed themselves with regard to the treaty, the hentry board of guardians still stands alone as opposed to its acceptance.

JACKIES IN FIGHT

American Sailors in Brawl With Italians in Shanghai.

(By Associated Press)

Shanghai, Jan. 2.—Serious trouble between sailors from Italian and American warships developed today when a band of forty Italian sailors surprised and attacked about a dozen jackies in a cafe and then went from one restaurant to another attacking isolated bands of Americans. Five jackies sustained knife wounds, and two were severely stabbed. The trouble was the outgrowth of a trifling brawl in a cafe. All shore liberties from warcraft have been suspended as a result.

One of the wounded Americans, D. J. Rebbe, of the gunboat Wilmington, died later from his injuries.

The following were guests at New Year's dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Rice, of Bendersville: Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Slaybaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rice, Mr. and Mrs. George Slaybaugh, Mrs. William Taylor, Mrs. Joseph Wahley, Mrs. Carrie Beamer, Misses Gladys, Pearl and Margaret Slaybaugh, Grace Slaybaugh, Edna and Carrie Rice, Mary June Rice, Lewis Rice, Wilmore and John Slaybaugh, Isabel Slaybaugh, Earl Raymond and Clair Slaybaugh, Mildred, Ethel and Olive Beamer.

LOWER FARES TO BIG FARM SHOW

Special Concession Granted by Railroads Taking People to Harrisburg.

Reduced railroad rates from all points in Pennsylvania will be granted to those persons attending the agricultural conventions and educational meetings to be held in connection with the Sixth Annual State Farm Products Show at Harrisburg, January 23-27. The tickets will be good for three days.

In order to secure the reduction in rates it will be necessary for the farmers to secure tickets from their county agents or from the secretary of one of the organizations which meets in conjunction with the show. Full fare will be paid going to Harrisburg and after the ticket has been issued, the return ticket will be sold at half fare.

The fact that more than 35,000 persons attended the farm products show last year and that even a larger number is expected this year lead the railroad companies to grant the concession.

Plans for the show and attendant educational meetings are progressing rapidly. Tons of exhibits have already been shipped to Harrisburg from all sections of the state. These have been placed in cold storage. More than 65,000 square feet of floor space has been secured for the show alone, while every available meeting place in Harrisburg has been leased for the holding of the educational meetings.

Really Time Wasted.
"A taxpayer looking for sympathy," said Uncle Eben, "is always run up again a lot of families that are very lucky to have enough to get by."

ABBOTTSTOWN

Abbottstown.—The following officers for the ensuing year, were elected after services in the Reformed church: trustee, Jonas Hildebrand; deacons, Reuben Alland and Lester Hoover; elders, Jeremiah Lillich and Samuel J. Meckley.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kinneman and Edward Steffan, Hanover, spent Thursday with Mr. Kinneman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kinneman.

Miss Clara Wolf, York, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis S. Wolf.

Mrs. Thomas Ural and son, Thomas, spent several days last week with friends in Spring Grove and York.

SUICIDE BY GAS

Police. Notified By Neighbor, Find Body Of Man.

Cambridge, Md., Jan. 2.—Walter T. Stevens, 55 years old, committed suicide here yesterday by fastening a tube leading from the gas jet into his mouth. He was found by police who were notified by Dr. P. P. Parry. After entrance was gained by breaking the door leading into his print shop, where he slept and worked, the police found him lying on a bed.

Dr. Payne, who lives next door to the print shop, detected the gas fumes when he arose. The dead man was said to have been married twice. The motive for his act is believed to have been despondency over ill health.

CHILDREN'S MANNERS

Whatever you do, do wisely and think of the consequences.—Lester Romanoun.

THE minute a child begins to eat with the assistance of its own small hands, the first lesson in table manners must begin. There is little excuse for the disgusting table manners of some children. They are due, really, to the fact that the mother or other caretaker finds it too trouble to let the child search aimlessly for its small mouth than to insist that it locate it daintily, surely and without experiment.

A very small child can be taught to eat nicely. Teach it that spooned bits are beneath contempt. Patiently show it how to hold its spoon and cup, and help it to eat slowly. The lesson is a hard one for the teacher as well as for the child. But perseverance is the only way. And once the child has learned to eat daintily, the slovenly ways of untrained children when they are eating will be as distasteful to it as you would find them in a grown person.

Remember that children ape the manners of their elders. For this reason the greatest care should be used in the choosing of nursemaids, governesses or any one else who comes in constant contact with the child. Many well known men have talked, when excited, to their dying day in the brogue or burr of their childhood nurses.

And who can doubt that much of the gentleness of character and strength of spirit of Robert Louis Stevenson were inspired in him by the dear old nurse to whom he dedicated his "Child's Garden of Verse?"

The imitative method is the easiest whereby a child may acquire its manners. The small boy who adores his gallant father seldom forgets to take off his hat and stand in the presence of women. The small girl who looks up to her mother with affection is the pattern of loving courtesy to her father. Children often affect the graces of their elders in a most laughable way. But don't laugh at them. They will outgrow this priggishness. It is only a case of their imitative acquisition of manners.

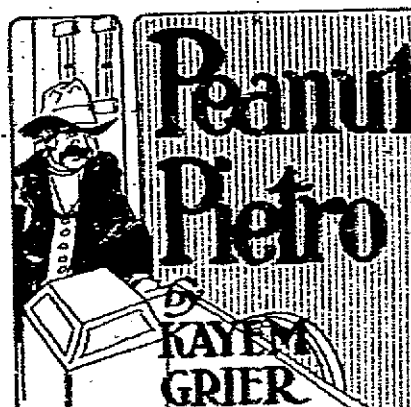

It is the vogue of the day for small girls, up to the age of ten or twelve, to curtsy when they meet their elders. After that they like small boys, stand and shake hands. It is also proper for children to be quiet and unobtrusive when they are in the company of grown-ups.

Some of the set rules of children's manners, like these, they cannot learn by imitation. But if they are courteous, thoughtful and happy they will take an interest in acquiring these little superficial manners that will make their acquisition easy.

SHE JOLLY WELL DID

Mary had a lot of cash.
'Twas left her by her father.
And perhaps she didn't cut a dash.
Oh my, you know—well, rather!

WELL, dat frien of mine wot no feela good last week gotta plenty more trouble now. He been dead for tree, four day alla ready.

I dunno wot's matter, but he gotta some kinda trouble weeth da stom. Everyday he tell me he no eata ver mooch. I tella heem es greata stuff eef he can do dat so moocha he like. I feegure eef he no eata ver mooch he no gotta mooch expense for da leaving. Tree meal everyday costa da dolla feefaty cent for da beefsteak. And righta when da guy feegure out system for beata da high costa for leaving da son-of-a-gun go dead. I tink eef he keepa da stom on da bum leetle while and no eat he gotta plenty money.

But he keeka too mooch bouta da pain een da stom. Da physish geeva heem da pill and he no feela so good. Nexa day he go see da chiropac and he gotta fight weeth dat guy when he puncha hees back.

Da chiropac say da physish maka meestake and da physish say da chiropac dunno somating. So wot my frien can do fer da pain een da stom?

One day he gotta deessust and go veesit da hospitaal. Dat place tella heem he gotta have da operash eef he wanta feela good. So he takka da operash and een few day he begin feela swell. He no gotta da pain and he say he gonna go home leetle while.

But jusa before he gonna leava dat place he getta da bill. He peeve one look at da bill and go dead. Melde he feegure would take alla hees life for pay da expense so he go dead righta queek and cutta da bill down. I dunno.

another's glasses. At 11 o'clock the pastor preached a sermon, the title of which was "While I Was Missing, the Fire Burned." Shortly before 12 o'clock, the congregation knelt in prayer until the town clock struck midnight, after which the meeting closed with the benediction.

At the Trinity Reformed Church, in addition to a watch service, the pastor, Rev. Paul R. Pontius, conducted preparatory services for the Holy Communion administered Sunday. The new year services began at 10:45 with an organ prelude played by Mrs. Carrie Pretz, after which the pastor preached a sermon on the subject "Old Things Made New." Following the sermon, a prayer of grace for the old year was offered and after the clock had struck midnight, a prayer of consecration was offered for the new year.

A similar prayer and watch service was held in the Asbury M. E. Zion church, South Washington street, by the pastor, Rev. J. J. Robinson.

CALIFORNIA TO BATTLE W. AND J.

All-American Stars Will Meet in Pacific Coast Game.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31—The University of California football team, which meets the Washington and Jefferson eleven here Monday, will be in the highest state of physical perfection reached during the season, according to Captain Will C. Bryan, trainer of the squad.

According to Captain Bryan, every man on the squad is in wonderful condition, and the lapse of time since the last game has given these slightly stricken teams a chance to get on edge.

The one player who has come in for special attention is "Brick" Muller, picked as end on Walter Camp's all-American eleven. A fractured leg bone early in the season kept the young giant out of the lineup for the remainder of the season, with the exception of a few times when he hobbled on the field to throw a forward pass and then retire.

All-American Stars
 With Muller in the game, Southern California fans will compare his work closely with that of Captain Stein, tackle for W. and J. and the President's only All-American selection. It will be the first time that All-American selections have played on opposing teams in the annual East vs. West contest.

The California squad is getting the best of the weather man by working out daily at the Pasadena Golf Club, where the ground conditions are of the best. Tournament of Roses officials are now fearful that the big game will be played on a wet field.

Record Ticket Sale
 Although San Diego promoters collected a heavy rain insurance when Centre College and Arizona played to a mere handful of spectators at San Diego last Monday, the local officials have made no effort to insure next Monday, as practically $200,000 worth of tickets have been sold and the contest will be played regardless of field or weather conditions.

LINGERIE THIEF Harrisburg Man Victim of Lover of Hose.

Harrisburg, Dec. 31—How to keep lingerie in the house is a problem worrying George E. Bell, of 626 Harris street, at the present time, for in two successive afternoons Mr. Bell's home has been entered by the use of a master key and all silk underwear, stockings, shift waists, and similar garments painlessly extracted.

At least, they were painlessly removed by the thief, but Mr. Bell confesses that the loss has caused him no little mental anguish, to say nothing of the feminine section of his household, direct losers.

Wednesday and Thursday afternoon were the times chosen by the thief, who it is suspected is a woman, for a neighbor of the Bell family told of seeing a heavily veiled person standing on their porch Wednesday afternoon. The veils and skirts could easily disguise a man, it was pointed out.

CANNOT DIVIDE DAUGHTER'S LOVE

McCormick's Both Seek Favor of Mathilde, Youngest of Family.

Chicago, Dec. 31—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Harold F. McCormick, who were freed in divorce court, have one anxiety left, it became known yesterday.

Each wants the major part of the love of their youngest daughter, Mathilde, 16, who is studying in Paris. What her eventual choice of parents will be is puzzling society, for by agreement Mr. and Mrs. McCormick are going to give the girl two years to decide which one she will choose to sponsor her Chicago debut.

Meantime she will pursue her studies. She wants to be a writer.

The divorced couple turned their attention toward the details of a financial settlement. They are negotiating through attorneys.

It is understood Mrs. McCormick will keep the town home on Lake Shore drive and that Mr. McCormick will retain the country home at Lake Forest, which is one of the show places of northern Illinois.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCormick attended grand opera last night and occupied separate boxes. Miss Muriel McCormick, the oldest daughter, sat with her father. Their son, Fowler, is in Princeton University.

The McCormicks, who have given more than $5,000,000 to the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will continue to contribute to the company's support, but both have announced that they will not bear the burden alone and they have called for 500 other citizens to donate $100 each annually.

Youngstown Mayor-Elect Proposes To Keep Tabs On Police.

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 31—Notice of a "breath inspector" to be appointed for the police force, inserted in the police roll-call here Thursday as a joke, was hailed as a good idea by Mayor-elect George L. Oles, who said yesterday that he would put it into force when he assumes office, January 1.

The notice said that the "breath inspector" would sniff at all policemen every four hours, and that scents of cloves, wintergreen or peppermint would put a black mark on the record of the offending officer.

January is memorable mostly for the freeing of the slaves in 1863, the opening of the Paris peace conference in 1919 and the beginning of prohibition under the eighteenth amendment, on January 16, 1920.

The 6th is the fourth anniversary of the death of Theodore Roosevelt, while followers of Benjamin Franklin will celebrate his birthday on the 17th. The south will honor the birthday of Gen. Robert E. Lee on the 19th.

Members of the W. C. T. U. will commemorate their organization's thirty-second birthday on the 23d.

The first locomotive in the United States started to run on January 15, 1831.

BIG BROKERAGE FIRM GOES UNDER

Seven Million Five Hundred Dollars Involved, Announcement Says.

MAY MEET LIABILITIES

Old Concern on Stock Exchange in Hands of Receiver. Grain Branch Affected.

New York, Dec. 31.—Failure of the firm of E. W. Wagner & Co. of this city, was announced yesterday from the rostrum of the New York Stock Exchange.

Federal Judge A. N. Hand appointed J. S. Sheppard, Jr., receiver for the company, under a bond of $200,000.

The firm was reorganized in 1916 and consists of Emil W. Wagner, who is the board member; Ernst Tiegens, C. A. Johnson and Frank W. Donaldson.

The company was one of the most prominent commission houses in the financial district. It maintained direct wire connections with various out-of-town points, including Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Omaha, Toledo, Syracuse and other cities.

The firm also dealt extensively in cotton options.

Notice Issued by Exchange

The Exchange issued this notice: "The committee on business conduct instituted an examination of the affairs of E. W. Wagner & Co. recently, as a result of which examination members of the firm were summoned before committee on business conduct. This was followed by assignment of the firm. The causes leading up to the assignment will be fully considered by the governing committee upon presentation of the matter to that body."

Liabilities Put At $7,500,000

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the company yesterday afternoon in Federal Court.

The petitioning creditors were: Peter J. Rogers, New York, who claims $5000; Frederick Boschen, who claims $4000; and the Rudolph Gunther-Dussell Law, Inc., with a claim of $500.

Liabilities of the alleged bankrupt were estimated at $7,500,000 and assets at $5,000,000.

The following statement was issued by E. W. Wagner & Co.:

E. W. Wagner & Co. has been in business for 37 years, and we hope liquidation of our affairs will justify confidence that has been placed in us. Unfortunately, our business was overextended and our capital became, in the judgment of the New York Stock Exchange authorities, insufficient to assure complete protection to our clients.

The business is out of our hands, but we shall render every assistance possible to those in charge. If properly and gradually liquidated, we believe our assets will be ample to take care of our obligations.

Operated Heavily in Grains

E. W. Wagner & Co., besides membership in the New York Stock Exchange, hold memberships in the New York Cotton Exchange, New York Curb Exchange, Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Stock Exchange, Cleveland Stock Exchange and Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Just before the failure of the firm it became known here that heavy liquidation had developed in the Chicago grain market, the selling being accompanied by rumors that an important commission house was in trouble. A large crowd assembled in front of the local offices of the firm as soon as its doors were closed.

According to reports current in Wall Street its most extensive commitments were in Chicago, where it operated heavily in grain options.

WORST TO COME OF POISON-BOOZE

Eleven Deaths Already Caused By Deadly Liquor in New York.

New York, Dec. 31.—The worst is yet to come. This is the view of New Year's Eve taken by city officials still dealing with the dead and injured laid low by wood alcohol in Christmas drinking bouts.

The police are still seeking the source of the poisonous liquor with which the city has been deluged during the holidays, causing 11 known deaths and presumably a number of others which have not received official notice because the victims died without medical attendance.

Heavy Drinking Continues

Notwithstanding the death roll New Yorkers continued to swallow bootleg of unknown origin, as if warming up for the heavy drinking with which the New Year usually is ushered in here. The latest victim was a man who tumbled into the East river. Bellevue Hospital alone has received 49 poisonous liquor patients since Christmas Eve and private hospitals have had their quota.

Ralph A. Day, State Prohibition Director, said yesterday that his agents had traced one of the largest sources of bootleg supply to warehouses where alcohol in shipment from Canada to the Bahama Islands is stored. Bootleggers, working in collusion with warehouse employees, he said, had removed thousands of gallons of alcohol for local distribution. This alcohol, however, is not of the poisonous variety.

COUNT-VERSED IN LOVE MAKING

Courtship of Royal Couple Was Not Without Its Romance.

London, Dec. 31.—Viscount Lascelles, the 39-year-old fiancé of Princess Mary, is tall and slim, with a blond mustache. He has a soldierly bearing; is always well-dressed; a sportsman and a good after-dinner speaker. Consequently, his contemplated entry into the royal family of England is regarded with popular favor.

The courtship of the betrothed couple, according to accounts, has been real love making. They have ridden together in Rotten Row, and have walked together through London streets. Country house parties at which the Princess has visited have included Lord Lascelles among the guests. He was a guest at Sandringham during the recent stay of the royal family there. He went shooting with the King and the Princess, accompanied the guns. It was here that the mutual regard established at earlier meetings ripened into something more.

Lord Lascelles approached the King before proposing to the Princess, and the royal parents, like any well-ordered family, talked it over with their daughter. Princess Mary soon showed that she was as much in love as the Viscount, whereupon the King gave his consent to Lascelles paying his formal suit to the Princess.

The Viscount won golden opinions when fighting in France with his regiment, the Grenadier Guards. One of his fellow officers says that Lascelles never lost his cheerful smile even in the hottest fighting; the only exception being when tobacco ran short. "A baby millionaire and not a cigarette to bless myself with," he grumbled.

He had successfully circumvented many attempts made upon his single estate by matchmaking mothers and had come to be regarded as a confirmed bachelor. He was not supposed to be a "ladies' man" and his tastes ran more in the direction of sport. He is a hard rider to hounds and has lately established a pack in Yorkshire, of which he is the master.

Lord Clanricarde, from whom Lord Lascelles in 1916 inherited nearly $2,500,000, was supposed to be the worst dressed man in the House of Lords. The rent roll from his Irish estates ran into $20,000 a year.

The Lascelles' London residence, Chesterfield House, a famous Mayfair mansion fronted with tall columns and facing Hyde Park, was used as the headquarters of the League of Nations, until the League moved into its permanent offices at Geneva.

Harewood House, the Lascelles ancestral seat near Leeds, is remarkable for its 76 doors made of solid mahogany, which were made on the family's estates in Barbados. Most of the wealth of the Earl of Harewood, the prospective bridegroom's father, is derived from sugar plantations in the West Indies.

Harewood House has a wonderful collection of china, valued at $1,000,000 and surpassed in this country only by the Windsor collection. The family arms are two bears supporting a shield with a golden cross, with the motto "In solo Deo salus" (Salvation in God alone).

DEBS FREED BUT NOT FORGIVEN

Release Was "Act of Grace," Says Attorney General Daugherty.

OFFENSE NOT CONDONED

Danger Seen in Prolonged Imprisonment. His Punishment Great Lesson to Country And World.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist leader, was granted his freedom from Atlanta Federal Penitentiary on Christmas by President Harding solely as an "act of grace"; his violation of the war laws remain unforgotten by the Government.

This was disclosed last night by Attorney General Daugherty, who made public the text of his recommendations to the President in the Debs case. "It will be observed," Mr. Daugherty said, "that a pardon was not granted Debs, but that his sentence was commuted. The action of the President in no wise condones the offense and the relief was solely an act of grace. The gratitude of Debs will be measured by his conduct in the future."

Same Policy Toward All

The Administration's theory of action in the Debs case, according to Mr. Daugherty, is to be considered as the Government policy in relation to others imprisoned for violation of the war laws, of which class of offenders "probably no better case could be selected," he declared, "than that of Debs."

"Regarding this class of so-called political prisoners," as they are termed by those who are demanding their release," Mr. Daugherty said, "there is no real reason why they should be treated any differently than any other persons who violate the law, aside from the fact that many of them, as well as their friends and associates on the outside, actually believe and are sincere in their belief that they have violated no just law and were strictly within their constitutional rights in their public utterances which have been found to be in violation of the Espionage Act."

Others "Past Reason"

"Of course, there are others among them who were and are actively, consciously disloyal to our Government, and who contemplate and intend to disrupt and overthrow our present form of government whenever opportunity presents itself, and are working to that end. As for them, nothing need be said. They are past reason and the only argument they can understand is the heavy arm of the law. They have been justly and wisely convicted and must suffer the penalty of their misdeeds."

In reaching his decision regarding Debs, the Attorney General reviewed the history of the case, quoting copiously from the speech delivered by Debs before the Socialist convention at Canton, Ohio, in 1918, pointing out that the constitutionality of Debs' conviction was upheld by the Supreme Court and asserting that this was the second time Debs had "set up his theories of government against the Government itself"—referring to the so-called Pullman strike in 1894.

Gold Story Interesting if Highly Improbable.

Goldboro, N. C., Dec. 31.—Several days ago three strange men from the North came to this city with what appeared to be a light camping outfit, suit cases, rods, etc. They hired an automobile at the Union Station, piled their outfit in it and went out to Lane's farm, two miles south of this city, an old "fo-de-war" plantation.

Persons living in the neighborhood watched the three strangers and saw them going about from place to place measuring with their rods. At last they came to a halt and commenced digging.

After digging five or six feet down in the ground they came to what they were looking for—a pot of gold—said to have contained $50,000 or more. The gold was quickly placed in their suitcases, they hurried back to Goldboro that night, and boarded a northbound train and left for parts unknown. After the strangers left, people who had been watching them hurried to the scene and found that they had dug deep down in the ground until they came to what may have been a concrete vault, built before the Civil War, where the pot of gold had been buried for many, many years.

GET COURSE IN BOMBS

State policemen in training at the Newville barracks have been taking courses in the use of tear gas bombs for "smoking out" people who hide in houses and for other emergency use. Most of the men in the State Police force are veterans of overseas, and many of them have had experience with gases in actual fighting. The tear gas being tried has been tested by the officers of the force themselves and will be employed only when other means fail.

THOUSANDS DIE BY FLOOD IN CHINA

New Horrors Reported by Minister. Famine Follows Sudden Rise in Waters.

New York, Dec. 31.—New floods sweeping over vast sections of China and followed by famine have killed thousands and left hundreds of thousands starving.

This was the message received yesterday by the Episcopal Department of Missions from Rev. Edmund J. Lee, secretary of the International Famine Relief Committee at Ahnwei.

Yellow River Overflows

The Yellow river, which last August overflowed its banks, flooding a large part of the Province of Shantung, again has risen, this time covering great tracts in Shantung, Kiangsu and Ahnwei and finding "a new outlet to the sea."

"So suddenly did the flood come that great numbers were unable to escape," wrote the clergyman. "Whole villages were swept away and thousands were drowned."

Hwai River Bursts Banks

"In Ahnwei Province the Hwai river burst its banks and has become one great inland sea. Large parts of 13 counties are submerged, the flooded area comprising about 10,000 square miles."

Other reports received at Episcopal headquarters indicated that several lakes had been formed over enormous tracts formerly under cultivation and that it was impossible to drain many sections. This would mean that the "dispossessed" would be unable to return to their ruined villages and would be dependent on famine relief the rest of the winter.

An international famine relief society has been organized in Anking, including the Governor, Military Governor and Bishop Huntington.

WOMAN LAWBREAKER

Female Goes After Thing She Wants, Says Novelist.

New York, Dec. 31.—"Woman is a natural lawbreaker. Man is the law-maker. But woman's tendency is to go in by the door marked 'out.' She looks on the law as an outrage. It's because woman is more governed by desire than man is. The difference between the feminine and masculine mind is that woman tends to go after the thing she wants, and man tends to go after the thing that ought to be."

Thus did W. L. George, famous English novelist, lecturer and scientific feminist, reply to a question concerning the most striking point of psychological differences between the eternal feminine and the quite as eternal masculine. Mr. George, whose arrival on the pier here was an imposing thing requiring three and a half hours to accomplish, according to his story, has come to America for a lecture tour.

With him is his bride, a sweet-faced, soft-voiced English girl whose present life, she said, is given over principally to wondering how her distinguished husband happened to fall in love with her, and to happiness that he did.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM AVE ATQUE VALE

GOODBYE, then, 1921;
You were a good friend in the main;
You brought a little more to fun,
And happiness, than woe and pain,
I don't think that we can complain
About the deal we got from you;
Goodbye—oh, here's your hat and cane!—
Hello there, 1922!

WE greet you very gladly, son;
Now that we've seen the old year wane,
We'll watch you wae. You have begun
In hopeful style; can you maintain
Your present pace without a strain?
If so there's much that you can do
Which in the past we've sought in vain—
Hello there, 1922!

PERHAPS you'll teach us how to shun
Grim wars that split the world in twain;
And by your magic may be spun
About the world a golden skein
Of love and peace. Ah, we are faint
To have a hope like that come true,
A hope that thrills the heart and brain.
Hello there, 1922!

ENVOY
YOU come to bless and not to ban,
And now the old year's done and through,
We wish you luck throughout your reign—
Hello there, 1922!

CAUSED BY CARELESSNESS

Over 86 per cent of the accidents occurring in Pennsylvania industries during 1920 were preventable and 62.6 per cent were due to carelessness, according to figures in the report of the Bureau of Inspection of the State Department of Labor and Industry sent to the printers yesterday. These figures were taken from the factory inspectors' accident reports, and many of them have been the subject of special investigations on orders from Commissioner of Labor and Industry C. B. Connelley. The inspectors also reported 982 violations of the child labor act during the year, and prosecutions were started in 276. Violations of the child labor act were the most numerous of those turned up by the department's inspectors.

NEW SKATING POND
DRAWS HUNDREDS

Ice is Four Inches Thick and Young America is Happy.

Youthful skaters of town, who for the past two years had placed their skates among the forgotten things, with little or no ice on any of the streams or ponds around Gettysburg, have now taken them out of the hidden places and are daily flocking by the hundreds to the newly built pool about a mile east of town, known as Weaver's pond, on the property of Mrs. Mary E. Miller.

With the thermometer below freezing for the past week, ice has frozen to a depth of from four to six inches. Little or no wind with the freezing has left the surface smooth and firm.

This latest and most popular skating pond around town is situated between the Western Maryland railroad tracks and the Hunterstown road. To reach the pond by walking puts just enough zest into the skaters, who literally cover this pond daily and long into the night. During the day and night a huge fire is kept blazing to warm the cold hands and feet.

This miniature lake, which covers about a half acre of land, is deep in places, but the depth of the ice is sufficient to hold a large number of skaters. The pond formerly supplied Gettysburg with its ice for the summer months and several ice houses which stood around the pond, have been abandoned and torn down.

During the past summer, a number of boys from town conceived the idea of putting a dam across a small creek near the pond to fill it again with water and used it as a swimming hole. The dam has remained this winter and now makes an ideal place for skaters. A number of grown-ups are seen daily among the skaters demonstrating their ability at "cutting stars".

HARDING FIRM ON BONUS

Believed He Will Veto Bill If It Is Passed by Congress.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31—A well authenticated report has it that President Harding will not relinquish his attitude against the wisdom of voting a bonus. It is believed that should Congress go contrary to his wishes in writing the measure and sending it to him for his approval, he will exercise his veto privilege.

The President has not yet used the veto, although he was strongly tempted.

The Poor Inventor

THE originator of an idea has wasted his time unless he is able to interest some one else in his creation—unless that someone else can enjoy it or benefit by it.

It is because thoughts are so freely radiated—so easily exchanged and spread broadcast—that this country is a fine place to live in.

Consider the advertisements in this paper. They are thoughts. Many of them are thoughts conceived with you in mind—thoughts for your comfort—your pleasure—your health—your satisfaction. Thoughts that will save you time and and money.

Do you take full advantage of them? Advertising is the voice of American business.

Third month in 1922 having five paydays. First newspaper says "Do your Christmas shopping early." Halloween, as usual. About 987,654,321 worth of furniture breaks on moving day. Pairs are bigger and better. Lloyd George coming over next month.

NOVEMBER

Statistics show big fruit crop broke all records. Fruit prices high on account of small crop. Squirrels start hiding golf balls. Last bathing girl leaves magazine covers. Thanksgiving, as usual. Turkeys scarce. Lloyd George coming over next month.

DECEMBER

Fourth month in 1922 having five paydays. Christmas comes on Monday. Everyone does his shopping on the Saturday before. Lloyd George decides to stay home and celebrate first anniversary of England's freedom from Ireland.

CAUSED BY CARELESSNESS

Over 86 per cent of the accidents occurring in Pennsylvania industries during 1920 were preventable and 62.6 per cent were due to carelessness, according to figures in the report of the Bureau of Inspection of the State Department of Labor and Industry sent to the printers yesterday. These figures were taken from the factory inspectors' accident reports, and many of them have been the subject of special investigations or orders from Commissioner of Labor and Industry C. B. Connelley. The inspectors also reported 982 violations of the child labor act during the year, and prosecutions were started in 276. Violations of the child labor act were the most numerous of those turned up by the department's inspectors.

NEW SKATING POND
DRAWS HUNDREDS

Ice is Four Inches Thick and Young America is Happy.

Youthful skaters of town, who for the past two years had placed their skates among the forgotten things, with little or no ice on any of the streams or ponds around Gettysburg, have now taken them out of the hidden places and are daily flocking by the hundreds to the newly built pond about a mile east of town, known as Weaver's pond, on the property of Mrs. Mary E. Miller.

With the thermometer below freezing for the past week, ice has frozen to a depth of from four to six inches. Little or no wind with the freezing has left the surface smooth and firm.

This latest and most popular skating pond around town is situated between the Western Maryland railroad tracks and the Hunterstown road. To reach the pond by walking puts just enough zest into the skaters, who literally cover this pond daily and long into the night. During the day and night a huge fire is kept blazing to warm the cold hands and feet.

This miniature lake, which covers about a half acre of land, is deep in places, but the depth of the ice is sufficient to hold a large number of skaters. The pond formerly supplied Gettysburg with its ice for the summer months and several ice houses which stood around the pond, have been abandoned and torn down.

During the past summer, a number of boys from town conceived the idea of putting a dam across a small creek near the pond to fill it again with water and used it as a swimming hole. The dam has remained this winter and now makes an ideal place for skaters. A number of grown-ups are seen daily among the skaters demonstrating their ability at "cutting stars".

HARDING FIRM ON BONUS

Believed He Will Veto Bill If It Is Passed by Congress.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—A well authenticated report has it that President Harding will not relinquish his attitude against the wisdom of voting a bonus. It is believed that should Congress go contrary to his wishes in writing the measure and sending it to him for his approval, he will exercise his veto privilege.

The President has not yet used the veto, although he has strongly tempt-

AMBITION BOOTLEG PLOT
New York Liquor Withdrawal Scheme Was Poem For Detail.

New York, Dec. 31.—An elaborate plot for the illegal withdrawal of liquor through forged permits, counterfeit registered mail receipts and prohibition headquarters stationery, even the forged signature of the woman clerk who signed for registered mail at headquarters, was revealed by Ralph A. Day, Federal prohibition director, and Colonel Herbert C. Catrow, assistant director. The scheme, they declared, in all its ambitious intricacies of detail, was on the largest scale ever attempted since the Volstead law became effective.

In the month that Day has been in charge, about 35 of the forged permits have been discovered, it was said, but the officials were unable to estimate how many may have passed detection. One case was cited that attracted suspicion, and which, had it escaped notice, would have released alcohol valued at bootleggers' prices at more than $100,000. This was a forged permit calling for withdrawal of 250 drums of alcohol of 50 gallons each from a Philadelphia warehouse, which it was found did not exist. The forgery was discovered when it was observed that the alcohol was routed "via truck," a method of transportation not sanctioned by the department when a water route is available.

$50,000 WILL SUSTAINED

Court Holds Widow Was Competent to Dispose of Estate.

Lebanon, Pa., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Zibilla Weiss, widow of the late State Senator Samuel Weiss, of this city, was sane and of testamentary capacity at the time of making her last will, leaving her entire $50,000 estate to a niece, Mrs. Dorothy Oswald Bartman, of Louisville, Ky., formerly of Philadelphia. This was the decision yesterday of Judge C. V. Henry in dismissing the appeal taken by Assemblyman Charles Z. Weiss, of Aston, and other relatives of the late Senator Weiss, who attacked the validity of the will, alleging that at the time of its execution Mrs. Weiss was lacking in testamentary capacity, having been a lunatic for two years prior to that date.

EDUCATORS UPHOLD FINEGAN

State School Heads Policies Indorsed by Altoona Convention.

Resolutions indorsing the administration and policies of Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, were adopted by the Pennsylvania State Education Association at its annual convention in Altoona Friday.

The delegates pledged him their support.

The resolution said that "we unreservedly express our approval of the same and aggressive policies" of Dr. Finegan and pledge him and his able assistants our hearty and complete cooperation. Among the other resolutions adopted were: Favoring a department of education in the Federal Government, with the secretary in the President's Cabinet; sympathizing with the movement for a reduction of armament, indorsing the action of the State Council of Education in modifying the certificated regulation necessitated by recent legislation, indorsing the establishment of a State university, directing teachers to teach observance of law and preservation of order.

Opinion among members is that a bonus bill will be passed by the House within a few weeks. New hearings on the subject will probably be ordered early in January before the Ways and Means Committee.

Preparing Totals

Totals are now being prepared by the Prothonotary, G. Harry Roth for the county auditor, Robert Wible, Esq., about January 15, of the amount of business of a civil nature transacted in his office during the past year.

Unofficially, the number of suits and judgments entered on the books of the prothonotary during the year 1921 was 870 as compared with 719 during 1920. The number of executions or sheriff's sales during the past year has been 85. This number is almost twice as many as judgments not satisfied as during 1920 when only 44 judgments were placed in the hands of the sheriff for execution.

The reason for this large increase during the year is the fact that money has been scarce and that people were unable to borrow when their notes and judgments came due. Proof that money has been tight is shown by the fact that the total number of judgments satisfied during the year 1921 were fewer in 1920 while the number of judgments entered increased. During 1920, 602 of the 719 judgments entered on the docket were satisfied but during 1921 only 463 out of a total of 870 were paid at maturity.

TABULATE PRICE LISTS

Probe By Attorney General Nearing Completion.

Washington, Dec. 31—Federal investigation of retail prices of necessities in all parts of the country is rapidly reaching completion, it was said yesterday at the Department of Justice.

Department agents assigned to the duty by Director Burns, of the Bureau of Investigation, it was said, have been gathering price information in all the large cities and in smaller communities and country districts as well as it was believed that the whole country will have been covered in another week.

Reports from the department's agents, officials said, are being prepared in tabular form for Attorney General Daugherty, who has announced his intention of making public the results of the investigation to show what margins exist between retail prices and production costs of food, fuel, shoes and clothing in various localities.

BASS SEASON ENDS

Pennsylvania's season for catching bass ended with Friday night, according to law, although owing to the cold weather it really ended about a month ago. Late fall fishing for bass has been popular with some of the older fishermen in streams in the lower counties. The season for Susquehanna salmon will also close with December 30.

MURDERED IN MISSION

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 31—Surrounded by seventy or seventy-five sleeping men at the Inasmuch Gospel Mission in West Saratoga street, an unidentified man was shot to death early yesterday. His slayer escaped after threatening to shoot the watchman of the mission, who pursued him for several blocks.

All the sleepers were awakened, and great confusion prevailed. No cause could be assigned for the shooting.

The mission provides free lodgings for homeless men.

SID SAYS:

If You Expect Any Miracles in 1922 You Have Got to Perform Them.

By John M. Siddall, Editor of The American Magazine

THE New Year is at hand. But January 1 and the days to follow will be no different from December 31 and the days behind, unless you make them different.

One of the silliest of human delusions is the idea that time will bring everything out all right. Haven't you heard people get that off—and then proceed to do nothing whatever with time? The most pitiable business failure I know of was due to a self-deluded individual in the concern who did nothing but counsel the great things that time was going to do for the business. "Just wait," was his advice. "What we need is time. Leave it to time." So they did. And in time the business decayed.

Footish people leave all sorts of things to time. Some leave the question of ill health to time. Others leave the question of thrift to time. Only today I heard of a twenty-five-thousand-dollar-a-year man, right here in New York, who at fifty is spending every nickel he makes—saving nothing. I suppose he thinks that God cares for the ravens, and that God will take care of him. God will no doubt care for him—just as He cares for the ravens. But ravens don't live until they lose their jobs because of old age. Neither do they require steam heated apartments, underclothes, and hair mattresses to sleep on.

Left to itself, time is nothing but a grand little passer. Look how it passes in the desert and in the Arctic circle. Plenty of time—but no potatoes.

Don't leave anything to Father Time. He won't do anything for you. He can't. All he does is to provide you room in which to perform. If you sit in the corner and wait for him to do your job, you'll be disappointed.

Father Time is only a sort of janitor in the employ of the Almighty. He sees the tenants come and go. But he has nothing to do with any of them, cares nothing about them. When you enter the arena he may bow and say, "Good Morning." When you check out seventy or eighty years later he may say, "Good night." That, however, will be the extent of his interest in you, or knowledge of you. He sees billions pass in and out the gate—dunces, mediocres and bright boys like Caesar and Willie Shakespeare. But they all look alike to him.

CHARLES A. BIKLE

Brother of Dr. Bikle Dies in Hagerstown.

Charles A. Bikle, died at the home of his son-in-law, N. B. Meredith, Hagerstown, Thursday. Death was due to heart failure. He was in his 86th year.

Mr. Bikle was born in Thurmont, Maryland, son of Christian and Barbara (Fechtig) Bikle. Christian Bikle was born in Germany, in 1803, and was a cabinet maker by trade. He died at Smithsburg in 1884.

For years Charles A. Bikle was superintendent of the old Steam Engine works, of Hagerstown. The company manufactured threshers and other farm instruments. At the dissolution of the concern, Mr. Bikle took up a retired life. While associated with the Steam Engine works, Mr. Bikle invented a huller on a thresher and perfected many other devices.

For fourteen years he was known as Hagerstown's "watch dog" with the Washington County Water company and gave most valuable service. He was also a member of city council for one term and always took an active part in civic affairs.

Mr. Bikle married Annie Houser, who died some years ago. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Joshua Powles, Hagerstown; Charles E. Bikle, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. N. B. Meredith, Hagerstown; William F. Bikle, Hagerstown; Christian J. Bikle, Smithsburg; and Joseph F. Bikle, Minneapolis. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Lewis H. Bikle, D. D., Concord, N. C., who is a Lutheran pastor; Philip M. Bikle, Ph. D., who is dean of Gettysburg college, Gettysburg, Pa.; Christian F. Bikle, who is residing at Spring Grove, Pa.; Ferdinand H. Bikle, Smithsburg; Daniel Bikle, Harrisburg; and Miss Barbara A. Bikle, Hagerstown.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home.

SAYS WOMAN IS SLAYER

Convicted York Man Declares "Baby Doll" Killed Recluse.

York, Pa., Dec. 31—Word was received here yesterday that Harry Baker, a former Yorker, convicted of the murder of Dwight Chapman, a rich recluse of Westfield, Massachusetts, has made a statement declaring that "Baby Doll" Eleanor Baker, the woman who posed as his wife, actually committed the crime. Baker is reported as saying that he lied to save the girl at the trial and himself took the punishment.

In an affecting scene at the time of Baker's conviction, the woman declared that she would remain true to him. Since then she has disappeared. Baker claims that his companion, also a resident of York, while intoxicated beat out Chapman's brains with a claw hammer, the purpose being robbery.

STILL TAX AT MOVIES

Some misunderstanding has arisen among the people of town, according to the managers of the local moving picture houses, with regard to the tax repeal effective January 1, as affecting picture houses. A number of the patrons, it is said, are under the impression that the tax on moving pictures will be taken off after the first of the New Year.

This is not the case. The tax on shows over ten cents still remains 10 per cent of the admission fee and must be collected and turned over to the government. Where the admission is 10 cents or less, however, the tax has been repealed. Likewise on free shows on which the management formerly was forced to pay a tax to the government although it charged no admission, the tax has been repealed. The Federal tax on films has also been repealed.

"Boy" Quality

Quality in boy's clothes just like quality in any other clothes, is a matter of good materials and workmanship. Only that in boy's clothes the materials have to be extra good and the workmanship unusually fine before it really becomes "BOY" quality. It is this "Extra good" that you are getting in our boys' clothes.

SID SAYS:

If You Expect Any Miracles in 1922 You Have Got to Perform Them.

By John M. Siddall, Editor of The American Magazine

THE New Year is at hand. But January 1 and the days to follow will be no different from December 31 and the days behind, unless you make them different.

One of the silliest of human delusions is the idea that time will bring everything out all right. Haven't you heard people get that off—and then proceed to do nothing whatever with time? The most pitiable business failure I know of was due to a self-deluded individual in the concern who did nothing but counsel the great things that time was going to do for the business. "Just wait," was his advice. "What we need is time. Leave it to time." So they did. And in time the business decayed.

Footish people leave all sorts of things to time. Some leave the question of ill health to time. Others leave the question of thrift to time. Only today I heard of a twenty-five-thousand-dollar-a-year man, right here in New York, who at fifty is spending every nickel he makes—saving nothing. I suppose he thinks that God cares for the ravens, and that God will take care of him. God will no doubt care for him—just as He cares for the ravens. But ravens don't live until they lose their jobs because of old age. Neither do they require steam heated apartments, underclothes, and hair mattresses to sleep on.

Left to itself, time is nothing but a grand little passer. Look how it passes in the desert and in the Arctic circle. Plenty of time—but no potatoes.

Don't leave anything to Father Time. He won't do anything for you. He can't. All he does is to provide you room in which to perform. If you sit in the corner and wait for him to do your job, you'll be disappointed.

Father Time is only a sort of janitor in the employ of the Almighty. He sees the tenants come and go. But he has nothing to do with any of them, cares nothing about them. When you enter the arena he may bow and say, "Good Morning." When you check out seventy or eighty years later he may say, "Good night." That, however, will be the extent of his interest in you, or knowledge of you. He sees billions pass in and out the gate—dunces, mediocres and bright boys like Caesar and Willie Shakespeare. But they all look alike to him.

CALIFORNIA TO BATTLE W. AND J.

All-American Stars Will Meet in Pacific Coast Game.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31.—The University of California football team, which meets the Washington and Jefferson eleven here Monday, will be in the highest state of physical perfection reached during the season, according to Captain Will C. Bryan, trainer of the squad.

According to Captain Bryan, every man on the squad is in wonderful condition, and the lapse of time since the last game has given these slightly ripped teams a chance to get on edge.

The one player who has come in for special attention is "Brick"
Muller, picked as end on Walter Camp's all-American eleven. A fractured leg bone early in the season kept the young giant out of the lineup for the remainder of the season, with the exception of a few times when he hobbled on the field to throw a forward pass and then retire.

All-American Stars

With Muller in the game, Southern California fans will compare his work closely with that of Captain Stein, tackle for W. and J. and the President's only All-American selection.
It will be the first time that All-American selections have played on opposing teams in the annual East vs.
West contest.

The California squad is getting the best of the weather man by working out daily at the Pasadena Golf Club, where the ground conditions are of the best. Tournament of Roses officials are now fearful that the big game will be played on a wet field.

Record Ticket Sale

Although San Diego promoters collected a heavy rain insurance when Centre College and Arizona played to a mere handful of spectators at San Diego last Monday, the local officials have made no effort to insure next Monday, as practically $200,000 worth of tickets have been sold and the contest will be played regardless of field or weather conditions.

LINGERIE THIEF

Harrisburg Man Victim of Lover of

Harrisburg, Dec. 31.—How to keep lingerie in the house is a problem worrying George E. Bell, of 626 Harris street, at the present time, for in two successive afternoons Mr. Bell's home has been entered by the use of a master key and all silk underwear, stockings, shirt waists, and similar garments painlessly extracted.

At least, they were painlessly removed by the thief, but Mr. Bell confesses that the loss has caused him no little mental anguish, to say nothing of the feminine section of his household, direct losers.

Wednesday and Thursday afternoon were the times chosen by the thief, who it is suspected is a woman, for a neighbor of the Bell family told of seeing a heavily veiled person standing on their porch Wednesday afternoon.
The veils and skirts could easily disguise a man, it was pointed out.

CANNOT DIVIDE DAUGHTER'S LOVE

McCormick's Both Seek Favor of Mathilde, Youngest of Family.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Edith Rockfeller McCormick and Harold F. Mc-Cormick, who were freed in divorce court, have one anxiety left, it became known yesterday.

Each wants the major part of the love of their youngest daughter,
Mathilde, 16, who is studying in Paris. What her eventual choice of parents will be is puzzling society, for by agreement Mr. and Mrs. Mc-Cormick are going to give the girl two years to decide which one she will choose to sponsor her Chicago debut.

Meantime she will pursue her studies. She wants to be a writer.
The divorced couple turned their attention toward the details of a financial settlement. They are negotiating through attorneys.

It is understood Mrs. McCormick will keep the town home on Lake Shore drive and that Mr. McCormick will retain the country home at Lake Forest, which is one of the show places of northern Illinois.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCormick attended grand opera last night and occupied separate boxes. Miss Muriel McCormick, the oldest daughter, sat with her father. Their son, Fowler, is in Princeton University.

The McCormicks, who have given more than $5,000,000 to the Chicago
Grand Opera Company, will continue to contribute to the company's support, but both have announced that they will not bear the burden alone and they have called for 500 other citizens to donate $100 each annually.

Youngstown Mayor-Elect Proposes To Keep Tabs On Police.

Youngstown, Ohio, Dec. 31.—Notice of a "breath inspector" to be appointed for the police force, inserted in the police roll-call here Thursday as a joke, was hailed as a good idea by Mayor-elect George L. Oles, who said yesterday that he would put it into force when he assumes office,
January 1.

The notice said that the "breath inspector" would sniff at all policemen every four hours, and that scents of cloves, wintergreen or peppermint would put a black mark on the record of the offending officer.

Preparing Totals

Totals are now being prepared by the Probationary, G. Harry Roth for the county auditor, Robert Wible, Esq., about January 15, of the amount of business of a civil nature transacted in his office during the past year.

Unofficially, the number of suits and judgments entered on the books of the probate court during the year 1921 was 840 as compared with 719 during 1920. The number of executions or sheriff's sales during the past year has been 85. This number is almost twice as many as judgments not satisfied as during 1920 when only 44 judgments were placed in the hands of the sheriff for execution.

The reason for this large increase during the year is the fact that money has been scarce and that people were unable to borrow when their notes and judgments came due. Proof that money has been tight is shown by the fact that the total number of judgments entered on the docket during the year 1921 were fewer in 1920 while the number of judgments entered increased. During 1920, 602 of the 719 judgments entered on the docket were satisfied but during 1921 only 463 out of a total of 870 were paid at maturity.

TABULATE PRICE LISTS

Probe By Attorney General Nearing Completion.

Washington, Dec. 31—Federal investigation of retail prices of necessities in all parts of the country is rapidly reaching completion, it was said yesterday at the Department of Justice.

Department agents assigned to the duty by Director Burns, of the Bureau of Investigation, it was said, have been gathering price information in all the large cities and in smaller communities and country districts as well as it was believed that the whole country will have been covered in another week.

Reports from the department's agents, officials said, are being prepared in tabular form for Attorney General Daugherty, who has announced his intention of making public the results of the investigation to show what margins exist between retail prices and production costs of food, fuel, shoes and clothing in various localities.

BASS SEASON ENDS

Pennsylvania's season for catching bass ended with Friday night, according to law, although owing to the cold weather it really ended about a month ago. Late fall fishing for bass has been popular with some of the older fishermen in streams in the lower counties. The season for Susquehanna salmon will also close with December 30.

"Is your mamma at home?" asked a caller of little 5-year-old Lela. "No, but she will be home in a minute," was the reply. "How do you know?" inquired the caller. "Cause she said about an hour ago she was just going to run over to a neighbor's for a minute," answered Lela.—Buffalo Express.

CHARLES A. BIKLE

Brother of Dr. Bikle Dies in Hagerstown.

Charles A. Bikle, died at the home of his son-in-law, N. B. Meredith, Hagerstown, Thursday. Death was due to heart failure. He was in his 36th year.

Mr. Bikle was born in Thurmont, Maryland, son of Christian and Barbara (Fechtig) Bikle. Christian Bikle was born in Germany, in 1803, and was a cabinet maker by trade. He died at Smithsburg in 1884.

For years Charles A. Bikle was superintendent of the old Steam Engine works, of Hagerstown. The company manufactured threshers and other farm instruments. At the dissolution of the concern, Mr. Bikle took up a retired life. While associated with the Steam Engine works, Mr. Bikle invented a huller on a threshing and perfected many other devices.

For fourteen years he was known as Hagerstown's "watch dog" with the Washington County Water company and gave most valuable service. He was also a member of city council for one term and always took an active part in civic affairs.

Mr. Bikle married Annie Houser, who died some years ago. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. Joshua Powles, Hagerstown; Charles E. Bikle, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mrs. N. B. Meredith, Hagerstown; William F. Bikle, Hagerstown; Christian J. Biale, Smithsburg, and Joseph F. Bikle, Minneapolis. He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Lewis H. Bikle, D. D., Concord, N. C., who is a Lutheran pastor; Philip M. Bikle, Ph. D., who is dean of Gettysburg college, Gettysburg, Pa.; Christian F. Bikle, who is residing at Spring Grove, Pa.; Ferdinand H. Bikle, Smithsburg; Daniel Bikle, Harrisburg, and Miss Barbara A. Bikle, Hagerstown.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home.

SAYS WOMAN IS SLAYER

Convicted York Man Declares "Baby Doll" Killed Recluse.

York, Pa., Dec. 31—Word was received here yesterday that Harry Baker, a former Yorker, convicted of the murder of Dwight Chapman, a rich recluse of Westfield, Massachusetts, has made a statement declaring that "Baby Doll" Eleanor Baker, the woman who posed as his wife, actually committed the crime. Baker is reported as saying that he lied to save the girl at the trial and himself took the punishment.

In an affecting scene at the time of Baker's conviction, the woman declared that she would remain true to him. Since then she has disappeared. Baker claims that his companion, also a resident of York, while intoxicated beat out Chapman's brains with a claw hammer, the purpose being robbery.

STILL TAX AT MOVIES

Some misunderstanding has arisen among the people of town, according to the managers of the local moving picture houses, with regard to the tax repeal effective January 1, as affecting picture houses. A number of the patrons, it is said, are under the impression that the tax on moving pictures will be taken off after the first of the New Year.

This is not the case. The tax on shows over ten cents still remains 10 per cent of the admission fee and must be collected and turned over to the government. Where the admission is 10 cents or less, however, the tax has been repealed. Likewise on free shows on which the management formerly was forced to pay a tax to the government although it charged no admission, the tax has been repealed. The Federal tax on films has also been repealed.

"Boy" Quality

Quality in boy's clothes just like quality in any other clothes, is a matter of good materials and workmanship. Only that in boy's clothes the materials have to be extra good and the workmanship unusually fine before it really becomes "BOY" quality. It is this "Extra good" that you are getting in our boys' clothes.
